

About the Author

Jeff A. Farinacci became interested in astronomy at the age of 4 when his brother Jim showed him Comet Ikeya-Seki. He graduated from the University of Utah with two Bachelor of Science degrees (both Magna Cum Laude), in Mathematics and Physics. He also graduated from Indiana University with a Master of Arts degree in Mathematics. He has worked as a Software Engineer on a variety of projects for various companies. He has worked on a variety of defense projects, wrote various simulations, and wrote a 3D graphics library for a graphics chip and designed the math functions that went onto another chip.

He also wrote “Stellar Guides for Your Birthday,” an article in the November 2001 issue of Sky & Telescope magazine.
