

Contributors

Weert Canzler holds a Diplom in political science from the Freie Universität Berlin and a doctorate in sociology from the Technical University of Berlin. He completed his habilitation with teaching authorisation for "Social Science Mobility Research" at the Technical University of Dresden. Since 1993, he has been a researcher at the Social Science Center Berlin (WZB) and since 2013 the spokesperson of the "Leibniz-Forschungsverbund Energiewende".

Martin Jänicke is Professor for Comparative Politics and between 1986 and 2007 he has been Director of Environmental Policy Research Centre (FFU) of the Freie Universität Berlin. Prof. Jänicke has over 40 years' experience as scientific author and senior policy advisor. Between 1999 and 2008 Jänicke served as a member and Vice President (2000-2004) of the government Expert Council on the Environment (SRU). Since 2013 he is also Senior Fellow at the Institute for Advanced Sustainability Studies (IASS).

Lutz Mez is a senior adjunct professor (Privatdozent) at the Department of Political and Social Sciences, Freie Universität Berlin. In April 1986 he co-founded the Environmental Policy Research Centre (FFU) and served as its executive director until April 2010. His major research area is comparative environmental and energy policy, with particular reference to nuclear and electricity policy.

Lila Okamura is an associate professor at the Department of German Studies and a Member of the Institute of Human and Environmental Symbiosis Research at Dokkyo University in Japan. She holds a master's degree in political science from Gakushuin University in Tokyo and a doctoral degree from the Freie Universität Berlin. Her teaching and research areas are comparative environmental policy, energy and climate policy, waste management and nuclear policy.

Martin Schulz is senior research fellow at the Fujitsu Research Institute (FRI), a leading industry think tank in Japan. His research areas include digital transformation, corporate strategy and economic policy. Before 2000, he was a visiting researcher at a number of universities in Europe and Japan, and assistant professor Freie Universität Berlin.

Helmut Weidner is a political scientist and an adjunct professor (Privatdozent) at Freie Universität Berlin. In the period 1978-2013 he was research fellow at the Social Science Center Berlin (WZB). Weidner's research fields are comparative environmental policy and analysis, global climate and alternative conflict resolution (mediation). More recently he dealt with issues of equity, global justice and redistribu-tional problems in climate change policy.