

Memorialization in Germany since 1945

Also by Bill Niven

FACING THE NAZI PAST

GERMANS AS VICTIMS (edited)

Also by Chloe Paver

REFRACTIONS OF THE THIRD REICH IN GERMAN AND AUSTRIAN FICTION AND FILM

Memorialization in Germany since 1945

Edited by

Bill Niven

Professor of Contemporary German History, Nottingham Trent University and

Chloe Paver

Senior Lecturer in German, University of Exeter

palgrave
macmillan

Editorial matter, selection and Introduction,

© Bill Niven and Chloe Paver 2010

All remaining chapters © their respective authors 2010

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2010 978-0-230-20703-5

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No portion of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, Saffron House, 6-10 Kirby Street, London EC1N 8TS.

Any person who does any unauthorized act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

The authors have asserted their rights to be identified as the authors of this work in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

First published 2010 by
PALGRAVE MACMILLAN

Palgrave Macmillan in the UK is an imprint of Macmillan Publishers Limited, registered in England, company number 785998, of Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS.

Palgrave Macmillan in the US is a division of St Martin's Press LLC, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Palgrave Macmillan is the global academic imprint of the above companies and has companies and representatives throughout the world.

Palgrave® and Macmillan® are registered trademarks in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-349-30254-3      ISBN 978-0-230-24850-2 (eBook)
DOI 10.1057/9780230248502

This book is printed on paper suitable for recycling and made from fully managed and sustained forest sources. Logging, pulping and manufacturing processes are expected to conform to the environmental regulations of the country of origin.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

A catalog record for this book is available from the Library of Congress.

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1
19 18 17 16 15 14 13 12 11 10

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Notes on Contributors	xi
Introduction Bill Niven and Chloe Paver	1
Section 1 Remembering German Losses
1.1 The Volkstrauertag (People's Day of Mourning) from 1922 to the Present Alexandra Kaiser	15
1.2 Beyond Usable Pasts: Rethinking the Memorialization of the Strategic Air War in Germany, 1940 to 1965 Jörg Arnold	26
1.3 Roads to Revision: Disputes over Street Names Referring to the German Eastern Territories after the First and Second World Wars in the Cities of Dresden and Mainz, 1921 to 1972 Christian Lotz	37
1.4 Monuments and Commemorative Sites for German Expellees Hans Hesse and Elke Purpus	48
1.5 A Memorial Laissez-Passer ? Church Exhibitions and National Victimhood in Germany Daniela Sandler	58
1.6 Remembering on Foreign Soil: The Activities of the German War Graves Commission David Livingstone	69
1.7 Neither Here nor There? Memorialization of the Expulsion of Ethnic Germans Dagmar Kift	78
Section 2 Remembering Nazi Crimes, Perpetrators, and Victims
2.1 The Mediators: Memorialization Endeavours of the Regional Offices for Political Education ( Landeszentralen für politische Bildung ) Dieter K. Buse	91

2.2	Memorialization of Perpetrator Sites in Bavaria Markus Urban	103
2.3	Pieces of the Past: Souvenirs from Nazi Sites – The Example of Peenemünde Ulrike Dittrich	114
2.4	Remembering Euthanasia: Grafeneck in the Past, Present, and Future Susanne C. Knittel	124
2.5	Remembering Prisoners of War as Victims of National Socialist Persecution and Murder in Post-War Germany Jens Nagel	134
2.6	(In)Visible Trauma: Michael Elmgreen and Ingar Dragset’s Memorial to the Homosexuals Persecuted under the National Socialist Regime Thomas O. Haakenson	146
2.7	Memorializing the White Rose Resistance Group in Post-War Germany Katie Rickard	157
2.8	The Role of German Perpetrator Sites in Teaching and Confronting the Nazi Past Caroline Pearce	168
Section 3 Remembering Jewish Suffering
3.1	Memorialization through Documentation: Holocaust Commemoration among Jewish Displaced Persons in Allied-Occupied Germany Laura Jockusch	181
3.2	Memorializing Persecuted Jews in Dachau and Other West German Concentration Camp Memorial Sites Harold Marcuse	192
3.3	Remembering Nazi Anti-Semitism in the GDR Bill Niven	205
3.4	Rosenstraße: A Complex Site of German-Jewish Memory Hilary Potter	214
3.5	The Counter-Monument: Memory Shaped by Male Post-War Legacies Corinna Tomberger	224
3.6	Stumbling Blocks: A Decentralized Memorial to Holocaust Victims Michael Imort	233

- 3.7 Affective Memory, Ineffective Functionality: Experiencing Berlin's Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe 243
Brigitte Sion
- 3.8 From Monuments to Installations: Aspects of Memorialization in Historical Exhibitions about the National Socialist Era 253
Chloe Paver

Section 4 Socialist Memory and Memory of Socialism

- 4.1 Heroes and Victims: The Aesthetics and Ideology of Monuments and Memorials in the GDR 267
Susanne Scharnowski
- 4.2 Beating Nazis and Exporting Socialism: Representing East German War Memory to Foreign Tourists 276
Lynne Fallwell
- 4.3 Memorializing Socialist Contradictions: A 'Think-Mark' for Rosa Luxemburg in the New Berlin 287
Riccardo Bavaj
- 4.4 Challenging or Concretizing Cold War Narratives? Berlin's Memorial to the Victims of 17 June 1953 298
Anna Saunders
- 4.5 GDR Monuments in Unified Germany 308
Mia Lee
- 4.6 Memorialization of the German-German Border in the Context of Constructions of Heimat 318
Gerd Knischewski and Ulla Spittler
- 4.7 The Fight in the Prison Car Park: Memorializing Germany's 'Double Past' in Torgau since 1990 328
Andrew H. Beattie

Section 5 Memorializing Germany's Ambivalent Legacies

- 5.1 Martin Luther – Rebel, Genius, Liberator: Politics and Marketing 1517–2017 341
Ulrike Zitzlsperger
- 5.2 Building Up and Tearing Down the Myth of German Colonialism: Colonial Denkmale and Mahnmale after 1945 351
Jason Verber
- 5.3 Remembering the Battle of Jutland in Post-War Wilhelmshaven 360
Georg Götz

5.4	The Memorialization of 9 November 1918 in the Two German States Arne Segelke	369
5.5	A Democratic Legacy? The Memorialization of the Weimar Republic and the Politics of History of the Federal Republic of Germany Sebastian Ullrich	379
5.6	Memorializing the Military: Traditions, Exhibitions, and Monuments in the West German Army from the 1950s to the Present Jörg Echternkamp	388
5.7	The Legacy of Second German Empire Memorials after 1945 Bill Niven	399
	Index	409

List of Illustrations

1	Representatives of Germany's five constitutional bodies (the five Bundesverfassungsorgane ) lay wreaths in the New Guardhouse in Berlin, 14 November 1993	22
2	Expellees' Monument in Tornesch, Schleswig-Holstein. The inscription reads 'There Is Only One Germany'	53
3	Expellees' Monument in Tornesch, Schleswig-Holstein, after the inscription was altered in 1997 to read 'In Memory of Our Unforgotten Home'	54
4	Exhibition chronicling the history of the Kaiser-Wilhelm-Gedächtniskirche, Berlin	59
5	Frauenkirche, Dresden, monument comprising a piece of the original dome, whose silhouette is represented on its face	65
6	Model rocket near the entrance to the Visitor Centre, Peenemünde	118
7	Build-your-own model of the 'Führer's' bunker at the site of the former Wolf's Lair in Poland	120
8	The Grey Bus Memorial during its stay in front of the Berlin Philharmonic on Tiergartenstrasse, from January 2008 to January 2009	130
9	Named single graves, 1945. They later became the Ehrenhain Zeithain	136
10	The 'universal monument' at the Sandbostel cemetery today	139
11	Memorial to the Homosexuals Persecuted under the National Socialist Regime in the Tiergarten, Berlin	147
12	Still image from the film loop that currently appears in the Memorial to the Homosexuals Persecuted under the National Socialist Regime	152
13	Memorial to the White Rose set into paving stones in front of the main entrance to Munich University	158
14	Marble sculpture of Sophie Scholl (centre of photograph on plinth) by Wolfgang Eckert	160
15	1946 Jewish Memorial in Belsen	194
16	1967 Jewish Memorial in Dachau	200
17	The three central sections of Ingeborg Hunzinger's sculpture Block of Women (Block der Frauen)	217
18	One of two advertizing columns – visible between the parked cars – used to display an exhibition about the Rosenstrasse Protest, close to where it took place	219
19	The Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe, Berlin	244

- |    |  |     |
|----|--|-----|
| 20 | Detail from an installation in the exhibition Home and Exile: Jewish Emigration from Germany since 1933 at the Jewish Museum Berlin   | 256 |
| 21 | Detail from one of a series of banners listing the names of victims of National Socialist persecution, shown in the exhibition National Socialism in Mainz 1933–45: Tyranny and Everyday Life | 259 |
| 22 | Fritz Cremer's Buchenwald sculpture  | 272 |
| 23 | Soviet memorial in Schönholzer Heide Park  | 280 |
| 24 | Section of the 'Think Mark for Rosa Luxemburg' near the People's Theatre, Berlin   | 288 |
| 25 | Wolfgang Rüppel's Memorial to the Victims of 17 June 1953, with Max Lingner's mural in the background  | 304 |

Notes on Contributors

Jörg Arnold was awarded his PhD by the University of Southampton, and recently took up a position at the University of Freiburg (under Ulrich Herbert). He has research interests in the social and cultural history of modern wars, the history of memory, and the history of the emotions. He is currently working on a monograph of the memorialization of the bombing war in post-war Germany.

Riccardo Bavaj is Lecturer in Modern European History at the University of St Andrews (UK). He has published widely on twentieth-century German history, including Die Ambivalenz der Moderne im Nationalsozialismus: Eine Bilanz der Forschung (Munich, 2003).

Andrew H. Beattie is Lecturer in German studies at the University of New South Wales, Sydney. His publications include Playing Politics with History: The Bundestag Inquiries into East Germany (New York, 2008).

Dieter K. Buse is Professor Emeritus, History Department, Laurentian University, Sudbury, Canada. His study The Regions of Germany (2005) complements his Modern Germany: An Encyclopedia of History, People and Culture, 1871–1990 (1998, 2 vols). He has published widely on various aspects of contemporary German history in journals such as Central European History and the Journal of Modern History.

Ulrike Dittrich is a freelance text editor and works for a consulting firm. She was an academic assistant at the Ravensbrück Memorial Museum. Her book KZ-Souvenirs (on concentration camp souvenirs) was published by the Brandenburg Office for Political Education in 2005. Her research project on memorial souvenirs was affiliated to the Center for Interdisciplinary Memory Research in Essen.

Jörg Echternkamp holds a PhD from the University of Bielefeld and has been a Fellow at the Research Institute for Military History (MGFA), Potsdam, since 1997. He was visiting professor at Calgary, Canada, in 2004, and has been associate lecturer at the Sorbonne (Paris). He is author of Kriegsschauplatz Deutschland 1945. Leben in Angst, Hoffnung auf Frieden. Feldpost aus der Heimat und von der Front (Paderborn, 2005).

Lynne Fallwell is Assistant Professor of History at Texas Tech University. Her publications include work on tourism and representations of German food in Edible Ideologies: Representing Food and Meaning (K. LeBesco and P. Naccarato, eds). She is currently completing a book on English-language guidebooks to Germany post-1945.

Georg Götz has developed history exhibitions and collection management schemes for museums in North Germany. His recent publications have focused on the visualization of German regions in photobooks, and on Second World War memorials. He teaches history and English at a grammar school in Bavaria.

Thomas O. Haakenson is Associate Professor and Chair of the Liberal Arts Department, University of Minnesota, where he completed his doctorate in 2006. He has articles forthcoming in Cabinet, New German Critique, The Rutgers Art Review, and the anthology Legacies of Modernism, among others. He has received several awards and fellowships, for instance from the US Fulbright Program.

Hans Hesse is a historian and project leader of the 'Archive of Memorialisation of the Third Reich in the Rhineland' at the Art and Museums' Library of Cologne. His main publication deals with de-Nazification (Konstruktionen der Unschuld. Die Entnazifizierung am Beispiel von Bremen und Bremerhaven (Bremen, 2005)).

Michael Imort is an associate professor in the Department of Geography and Environmental Studies at Wilfrid Laurier University in Waterloo (Ontario, Canada). His research examines the political instrumentalization of landscape representations and focuses on the use of the German forest landscape by both nationalist and environmentalist groups.

Laura Jockusch is Kreitman Postdoctoral Fellow at the Department of Jewish History at Ben Gurion University of the Negev and fellow at the International Institute for Holocaust Research at Yad Vashem in Jerusalem. She studied Jewish studies, modern history, and sociology at the Free University in Berlin and received her PhD in Hebrew and Judaic Studies from New York University in 2007.

Alexandra Kaiser was fellow of the Collaborative Research Centre on War Experiences, Tübingen, between 2005 and 2008. Her doctoral thesis focuses on the history of the People's Day of Mourning, and its role in German memory culture and politics. Since 2009 she has been a museum trainee at the Forum for Contemporary History in Leipzig. Her research interests include German memory culture, National Socialism, museum studies, and regional ethnography. She has published several essays.

Dagmar Kift is senior curator at the LWL-Industrial Museum in Dortmund and was head of the exhibition project 'Rebuilding the West'. She studied history, German literature, sociology, and law at the Free University in Berlin and was a British Council scholar at Oxford University (St Antony's College). She has published widely on German social, cultural, and industrial history.

Gerd Knischewski is Senior Lecturer at the School of Languages and Area Studies and a member of the Centre for European and International Studies Research (CEISR) at the University of Portsmouth, and a member of the Editorial Committee of the Journal of Contemporary European Studies Research. His publications include work on war memory in Germany, and united Germany's attempts at coming to terms with the past.

Susanne C. Knittel is currently finishing her dissertation 'Uncanny Homelands: Grafeneck, Trieste, and the Struggle for Memory' at Columbia University. It combines an analysis of two memorial sites – one dedicated to the memory of National Socialist euthanasia in Germany, the other to the memory of Fascist anti-Jewish and anti-Slav persecution in Italy – with a discussion of the various literary texts that address the memories of these specific historical sites and events.

Mia Lee is Assistant Professor of History at the University of Warwick. She is completing a book on art and political movements in West Germany.

David Livingstone is a Lecturer in History at Moorpark College in California. He holds BA and MA degrees in modern European History from California State University, Northridge. He has previously taught Strategy and Policy for the United States Naval War College and has travelled extensively to European military cemeteries.

Christian Lotz studied history and social sciences at the Universities of Leipzig, Edinburgh, Vienna, and Poznan. He is a member of the 'Leipziger Circle – Forum for Science and Art'. In 2007 he received his PhD at the University of Stuttgart for a thesis entitled Interpretations of Loss: Political Controversies in Divided Germany about the Memory of Flight, Expulsion and the Eastern Territories (1948–1972), subsequently published with Böhlau (2007).

Harold Marcuse is professor of contemporary German history at the University of California, Santa Barbara. In addition to works on the history of the reception of the Nazi past in Germany, he has written about the memorialization of events during the Second World War around the world.

Jens Nagel is head of Zeithain Memorial Site, Germany. In his research, he focuses on the history of Wehrmacht POW camps, looking particularly at the treatment of Soviet, Polish, and Italian POWs. He has published widely on this topic, most recently in the German history journal Vierteljahreshefte für Zeitgeschichte 4 (2008).

Bill Niven is Professor of Contemporary German History at Nottingham Trent University, UK. He is author of Facing the Nazi Past (2002), and editor of Germans as Victims (2006). He is currently preparing a book called A Post-Holocaust History of Germany, 1945–2010, and editing a volume on the history and memory of the sinking of the Wilhelm Gustloff.

Chloe Paver is a Senior Lecturer in German at the University of Exeter, UK. She is the author of Refractions of the Third Reich in German and Austrian Fiction and Film (Oxford, 2007). Since undertaking research as a Humboldt Fellow at the University of Konstanz in 2006–07, she has published a series of articles on historical exhibitions about the National Socialist era; she is preparing a monograph on the subject.

Caroline Pearce is Lecturer in German at the University of Sheffield. Her research focuses on German confrontation with the National Socialist past since 1990 and the role of memorial sites. Her most recent publication is Contemporary Germany and the Nazi Legacy. Remembrance, Politics and the Dialectic of Normality (Palgrave Macmillan, 2007).

Hilary Potter is a postgraduate student in the European Studies and Modern Languages Department at the University of Bath, UK, where she has taught on undergraduate courses in German and in European Studies. She is currently completing her PhD on Representations of the Rosenstrasse Protest in Post-Wende Germany.

Elke Purpus is Director of the Art and Museums Library of Cologne. Her most recent publication focuses on memorialization in Northrhine Westfalia (Gedenken und Erinnern im Rhein-Erft-Kreis. Ein Führer zu Mahnmalen, Denkmälern und Gedenkstätten (Essen, 2008)).

Katie Rickard completed her PhD in 2006. She was a Lecturer at the University of Bath, UK, where she also worked in the Graduate Office. She now works at the University of Reading, UK, for Aimhigher Berkshire.

Daniela Sandler is an architectural and urban historian, specializing in Germany and Brazil. Her research and teaching focus on social inclusion, memory, culture, and representation in the built environment. She has a PhD in Visual and Cultural Studies from the University of Rochester (2006). She also has a professional degree in Architecture and Urbanism from the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil. She teaches at the Rhode Island School of Design in the USA.

Anna Saunders is a Lecturer in German at Bangor University, Wales. Her research interests include questions of history and memory in eastern Germany, memorialization in contemporary Germany, and socialist and post-socialist youth culture; her monograph, Honecker's Children, was published with Manchester University Press in 2007.

Susanne Scharnowski has research interests in German literature of the eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth centuries. She has also published on memorial art in the GDR. She has taught at the Free University of Berlin, Germany, the University of Cambridge, UK, National Taiwan University, and the University of Melbourne, Australia. Since 2008, she has been administrative director of the PhD programme at the Friedrich Schlegel Graduate School of Literary Studies.

Arne Segelke graduated from the University of Hamburg, Germany, and is currently writing his doctoral thesis on 'Images of the First World War in Scandinavia'. He lives in Colombo, Sri Lanka.

Brigitte Sion is Assistant Professor/Faculty Fellow at New York University's Program in Religious Studies and Department of Journalism. Her doctoral dissertation in Performance Studies focused on the Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe in Berlin and the Monument to the Victims of State Terrorism in Buenos Aires.

Ulla Spittler is Principal Lecturer at the School of Language, Literature, and Communication at the University of Brighton, UK. She has published on memorialization of the Holocaust and the GDR, on German perspectives on Europe, and war memory in Germany.

Corinna Tomberger, PhD, is an art historian and social scientist working on memory politics and visual representation. She has been teaching gender studies and art history at the Humboldt University and the University of Arts in Berlin, Germany. Lately she has been preparing an exhibition on national symbols for the 'Haus der Geschichte' Foundation in Bonn.

Sebastian Ullrich wrote his PhD on the 'Weimar-Complex' of the early Federal Republic. He is editor for modern history, contemporary history, and politics at the publishing house C. H. Beck in Munich, Germany.

Markus Urban is a public historian and works as a freelance lecturer, author, and tour guide in Nuremberg, Germany. He is author of a book on the Nazi Reich Party Rallies (Die Konsensfabrik. Funktion und Wahrnehmung der NS-Reichsparteitage, 1933–1941 (V&R Press, 2007)).

Jason Verber is a PhD candidate in the Department of History at the University of Iowa, USA. His dissertation, which is in its final stages, examines the relationship between Germans and colonialism after 1945.

Ulrike Zitzlsperger is Senior Lecturer in German at the University of Exeter, UK. Her main research interest lies in the culture and literature of twentieth-century Berlin, with a particular focus on the 1920s and 1990s. She also works on sixteenth-century culture in Germany with a focus on Reformation pamphlets.