Following on the sustained success of the acclaimed European Union Series, which essentially publishes research-based textbooks, Palgrave Studies in European Union Politics publishes cutting edge research-driven monographs.

The remit of the series is broadly defined, both in terms of subject and academic discipline. All topics of significance concerning the nature and operation of the European Union potentially fall within the scope of the series. The series is multidisciplinary to reflect the growing importance of the EU as a political, economic and social phenomenon.

Acknowledgements

The editors would like to acknowledge the support of the British Academy through its Small Research Grants programme for financial assistance for the project on The Study of the European Neighbourhood Policy: Methodological, Theoretical and Empirical Challenges, of which this book is a direct product. We further acknowledge the support of the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC Research Seminar Series award RES-451-26-0419: The European Union as a Global Conflict Manager: From Pragmatic Ad-hocism to Policy Coherence?) for providing additional financial assistance for a workshop that brought together the contributors to this volume.

Contributors

Federica Bicchi is Lecturer in International Relations of Europe at the Department of International Relations, London School of Economics. She is the author of European foreign policy making toward the Mediterranean (Palgrave Macmillan, 2007) and co-editor, with E. Adler, B. Crawford and R. Del Sarto, of Convergence of Civilizations: Constructing the Mediterranean Region (University of Toronto Press, 2006).

Sven Biscop is Director of the Security and Global Governance Programme at Egmont – The Royal Institute for International Relations in Brussels, and the editor-in-chief of its journal Studia Diplomatica. He is a Visiting Professor for European security at the College of Europe in Bruges and at Ghent University and a member of the Executive Academic Board of the European Security and Defence College. He is co-director of the Higher Studies in Security and Defence, co-organised by Egmont and Belgium's Royal High Institute for Defence.

Carlos Echeverría Jesús is Professor of International Relations at the Spanish National Open University-UNED in Madrid and Professor at the Spanish Armed Forces High School (ESFAS). Since 2002 he has been Deputy Director of the Research Unit on Security and International Cooperation (UNISCI), at the Complutense University in Madrid. Between 1998 and 1999 he was Visiting Scientist at the Institute for Prospective Technological Studies (IPTS) of the Joint Research Centre of the European Commission, in Seville, and between 1994 and 1997 Research Fellow at the Western European Union Institute for Security Studies, in Paris, in charge of Mediterranean security projects at both institutions. Between 1992 and 2000 he was Lecturer on North Africa and the Mediterranean at the NATO Defense College, Rome.

Carmen Gebhard is Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the Institute for Advanced Studies in Vienna, and Associate Fellow at the Institute for Peace Support and Conflict Management at the Austrian National Defence Academy. From 2005 to 2006, she was Researcher and Project Leader on EU Crisis Management at the Austrian Institute for European Security Policy. She was then awarded a Research Fellowship at the European Decision-Making Unit of the European Institute of Public Administration (EIPA) in Maastricht from 2006 to 2007. Carmen

Gebhard holds a Master of Arts in Political Science (Vienna/Stockholm), a diploma in History (Vienna), a doctorate in Comparative Politics (Vienna) and she is a doctoral candidate in Security Studies at the Military University in Budapest.

Narine Ghazaryan has been a Research Student at School of Law, University of Nottingham since 2006. Her research area involves various aspects of the external relations of the EU. It is currently focused on the effectiveness of the European Neighborhood Policy in transposing the democratic values of the EU into the legal order of the countries of Southern Caucasus. Her professional experience includes advising the Armenian government on the issues of European integration within the Armenian-European Policy and Legal Advice Centre funded by the EU.

Hiski Haukkala is a Special Adviser at the Unit for Policy Planning and Research at the Ministry for Foreign Affairs of Finland. Before joining the Ministry in 2009 he was a Researcher at the Finnish Institute of International Affairs in Helsinki (from 2000). Over the years he has also held several visiting positions, including the EU Institute for Security Studies in Paris, the International Institute for Strategic Studies in London and the Department of Politics at the University of Stirling, Scotland.

Christine Pihlkjær Jensen is currently working as a political consultant for the Danish Financial Services Union (Finansforbundet). She was a Research Assistant at the Department of Political Science at the University of Southern Denmark until December 2008.

Ian Manners is Professor at the Institute for Society and Globalisation, Roskilde University. He was formerly at the Danish Institute for International Studies, Copenhagen, Malmö University, Sweden and the University of Kent at Canterbury, England. He has published on De Danske Forbehold over for Den Europæiske Union [The Danish Opt Outs from the EU] (2008); 'Another Europe is Possible: Critical Perspectives on EU Politics' (2007); Values and Principles in EU Foreign Policy (with Sonia Lucarelli, 2006); 'Normative Power Europe: A Contradiction in Terms?' (2002); The Foreign Policies of European Union Member States (with Richard Whitman, 2000); and Substance and Symbolism: An Anatomy of Cooperation in the New Europe (2000).

Antonio Missiroli is Director of Studies at the European Policy Centre in Brussels. From 1998 to 2005 he was Research Fellow at the WEU

Institute for Security Studies in Paris. Previously, he was also a British Council Visiting Fellow at St Antony's College, Oxford (1996/97), a Lecturer in European Politics at Dickinson College (Carlisle, PA, and Bologna) and Head of European Studies at CeSPI (Rome).

Annemarie Peen Rodt is a research fellow at the Exeter Centre for Ethno-Political Studies. Her research appraises the role of regional security organisations in the regulation of violent conflict. Her PhD, which examined the success of EU military conflict management operations worldwide, was completed at the Centre for International Crisis Management and Conflict Resolution at the University of Nottingham in September 2009. Her professional experience in this field includes work for the chief civilian peace implementation agency in Bosnia-Herzegovina: the Office of the High Representative and the Royal Danish Embassy in Sarajevo.

Sten Rynning is Professor of International Relations at the Department of Political Science at the University of Southern Denmark. His main research areas are security studies, transatlantic security relations, NATO and the EU. He is the author of NATO Renewed: The Power and Purpose of Transatlantic Cooperation (Palgrave Macmillan, 2005). The Danish Social Science Research Council funds his 2008–2010 research project, Whither the West? An Assessment of the Vitality of the Atlantic Alliance.

Gwendolyn Sasse is a Professorial Fellow at Nuffield College and a University Reader in Comparative Politics in the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford. Prior to her arrival in Oxford in April 2007 she was Senior Lecturer at the European Institute and the Department of Government at the London School of Economics. Among her research interests are post-communist transitions, ethnic conflict, 'old' and 'new' minorities, EU conditionality and enlargement, the ENP and Ukrainian politics.

Ben Tonra is the Director of the UCD College of Human Sciences' Graduate School and Jean Monnet Professor of European Foreign, Security and Defence Policy at the UCD School of Politics and International Relations. Professor Tonra was previously a Lecturer at the Department of International Politics, University of Wales, Aberystwyth, at the Department of Political Science at Trinity College, University of Dublin and a Research Associate at the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS), Washington, DC. His research interests and publications are concerned with EU security and defence, Irish foreign policy and International Relations theory. His latest book, European Republic to Global Citizen, Irish Foreign Policy in Transition is published by Manchester University Press.

Richard G. Whitman is Professor of Politics at the University of Bath and an Associate Fellow at Chatham House (formerly the Royal Institute of International Affairs). From April 2004 to April 2006 he was Head of the European Programme at Chatham House. Prior to arrival at Chatham House he was Professor of European Studies at the University of Westminster and where he was also Director of the Centre for the Study of Democracy from 2001–2003.

Stefan Wolff is Professor of International Security at the University of Birmingham, UK. He was previously Professor of Political Science at the Universities of Bath and Nottingham, where he was also Director of the Centre for International Crisis Management and Conflict Resolution. A political scientist by background, he specialises in the management of contemporary security challenges, especially in the prevention and settlement of ethnic conflicts and in post-conflict reconstruction in deeply divided and war-torn societies. Wolff's publications to date include Ethnic Conflict: Causes, Consequences, and Responses (with Karl Cordell, 2009), Ethnic Conflict: A Global Perspective (2006), Disputed Territories: The Transnational Dynamics of Ethnic Conflict Settlement (2002); The German Question since 1919 (2003); The Ethnopolitical Encyclopaedia of Europe (with Karl Cordell, 2004); Managing and Settling Ethnic Conflicts (with Ulrich Schneckener, 2004); Peace at Last? The Impact of the Good Friday Agreement on Northern Ireland (with a foreword by Lord Alderdice, with Jörg Neuheiser, 2002), Autonomy and Self-determination (with Marc Weller, 2005) and Germany's Foreign Policy towards Poland and the Czech Republic: Ostpolitik Revisited (with Karl Cordell, 2005).
