

Philosophers in Depth

Series Editors: Stephen Boulter and Constantine Sandis

Philosophers in Depth is a series of themed edited collections focusing on particular aspects of the thought of major figures from the history of philosophy. The volumes showcase a combination of newly commissioned and previously published work with the aim of deepening our understanding of the topics covered. Each book stands alone, but taken together the series will amount to a vast collection of critical essays covering the history of philosophy, exploring issues that are central to the ideas of individual philosophers. This project was launched with the financial support of the Institute for Historical and Cultural Research at Oxford Brookes University, for which we are very grateful.

Acknowledgments

I am very grateful for the help of many people, some of whom I will, no doubt, forget to thank here. I apologize to them for my poor memory. As for those whom I do remember, I begin with the series editors of the Philosophers in Depth series, Stephen Boulter and Constantine Sandis, for their initial invitation to edit this volume. I must also mention Melanie Blair and especially Priyanka Gibbons at Palgrave Macmillan for their continued support and patience with me as this book sailed past one deadline after another. It almost goes without saying that I greatly appreciate those who contributed to this volume. Moreover, I am in the debt of David L. Brooks, who first introduced me to Mill's work, and to many philosophers over the last decade who have taken the time to discuss Mill's ideas with me, though here I must single out Roger Crisp, Carl Ficarrotta, Brad Hooker, Geoffrey Sayre-McCord, Nicholas Sturgeon, and Derek Parfit for their insightful contributions. My students at the U.S. Air Force Academy, both in my course on ethical theory and in my seminar on Mill's moral and political philosophy, have pushed me to clarify my interpretation of Mill and show why it is relevant; for this I am most thankful. Finally – and as always – I am grateful to Kimberly, without whom none of this would be possible.
