

ANGLO-AMERICAN POLICY TOWARDS
THE FREE FRENCH

Anglo-American Policy towards the Free French

G. E. Maguire

Lecturer in British and American Studies

University of Paris XII – Val de Marne

in association with
PALGRAVE MACMILLAN

First published in Great Britain 1995 by
MACMILLAN PRESS LTD
 Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS
 and London
 Companies and representatives
 throughout the world

This book is published in the St Antony's Series
 General editor: Alex Pravda

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

ISBN 978-1-349-39408-1 ISBN 978-0-230-37164-4 (eBook)
 DOI 10.1057/9780230371644

First published in the United States of America 1995 by
ST. MARTIN'S PRESS, INC.,
 Scholarly and Reference Division,
 175 Fifth Avenue,
 New York, N.Y. 10010

ISBN 978-0-312-12710-7

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data
 Maguire G. E.

Anglo-American policy towards the free French / G. E. Maguire.
 p. cm. — (St. Antony's series)

"In association with St. Antony's College, Oxford."

Includes bibliographical references and index.

1. World War, 1939–1945—Diplomatic history. 2. France—Foreign relations—Great Britain. 3. Great Britain—Foreign relations—France. 4. United States—Foreign relations—France. 5. France—Foreign relations—United States. I. Title. II. Series: St. Antony's series (St. Martin's Press)

D752.M34 1995

940.53'2—dc20

95–11453
 CIP

© G. E. Maguire 1995

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 1995 978-0-333-63239-0

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No paragraph of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, 90 Tottenham Court Road, London W1P 9HE.

Any person who does any unauthorised act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1
 04 03 02 01 00 99 98 97 96 95

This book is lovingly dedicated to the memory of my father

Thomas William Maguire, 1930–87

and of my niece

Sharon Maureen Ford, 1981–86

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1 De Gaulle in London and the Formation of Free France, 1940–42	1
2 Free France and the United States, 1940–42	18
3 Lebanon and Syria	35
4 North Africa, 1940–42	56
5 Unity? 1943–44	75
6 The Anglo-Americans and the Resistance in France	96
7 The Financial Link	115
8 The Provisional Government of France, 1944–45	131
9 ‘Our Mutual Headache’: Churchill, Roosevelt and de Gaulle	154
Notes	170
Bibliography and Manuscript Sources	188
Index	197

Acknowledgements

The list of persons and institutions who have assisted me in this research is quite long. To begin with, in Paris, I would like to thank the staff of the Archives Nationales – and particularly the section contemporaine – who gave me numberless special authorisations to consult officially closed papers and private archives. I must also thank the ever helpful staff of the American Library and the American University Library. I would also like to express gratitude to the staff at the Archives of the Ministry of Defence in Vincennes. Finally, I must give particularly heartfelt thanks to the staff of the archives and library of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at the Quai d'Orsay. I must especially thank the staff of the library who gave me special authorisation to do research there. On the archives side, I am particularly grateful to Pierre Fournié who was ever ready to order documents for me at short notice; Catherine Oudin who allowed me to consult the oral archives and Anne-Marie Pannier who let me use her office to listen to cassettes. Finally, I must express my boundless gratitude to Marie-Andrée Guyot who secured my admittance to the library and helped me in many other ways.

In Britain I would like to thank the staffs of Churchill College Archives in Cambridge and the Middle East Centre of St Antony's College, Oxford, as well as that of the Bodleian Library. I must also express my gratitude to Colonel Aylmer who allowed me to consult the Spears Papers. No list would be complete without acknowledging the excellent service of the Public Record Office in Kew. I would also like to thank Dr Michael Hawcroft of Keble College Oxford who arranged for my accomodation there and Lynette Cawthra who was ever indulgent in allowing me to stay at her place in London when I needed to do research. Finally, I certainly cannot forget all the help given me by Fr Philip Whitmore and the priests, nuns and staff of Clergy House at Westminster Cathedral.

In the United States I must thank the staffs of the Roosevelt, Eisenhower and Truman Libraries who were very helpful. I must also recognise the assistance I received at the National Archives in Washington and especially that of Mr John Taylor in the Military Reference section. The archives of the Citadel in Charleston, South Carolina and the Historical Society of York County in York, Pennsylvania also kindly allowed me access to the Mark Clark and the Jacob Devers Papers respectively. Again, no list of acknowledgements would be complete without an expression of gratitude to one of the world's wonders, the Library of Congress, where

I consulted the Hull and Leahy Papers and innumerable books and where the newspaper and journals department were kind enough to do an exhaustive search of all Free French journals and newspapers in their possession. Finally I must thank my nephew Joseph Ford who served as a research assistant and greatly facilitated my work.

I cannot of course forget those who have assisted me in more personal capacities. I must particularly thank my mother, Gloria Smith, and my niece, Marie Ford, who made possible my research in Washington. I also owe special thanks to the Lopez family who were ever ready to be of assistance. Nor can I forget the help rendered by Roger and Line Zuber, my father and mother-in-law, who proofread and criticised the manuscript. I must also thank Professor Bernard Cottret of the University of Versailles-St Quentin who was ever ready with encouragement and who provided a forum for some of my ideas. Last but not least, I must thank my family. They put up with a great deal while this book was being researched and written, including long absences and endless hours locked in my office. Special thanks to Tommy and Kevin for being so understanding and to Henri for combining understanding and encouragement with proofreading and criticism. I could not have written this without them.

Paris

G. E. MAGUIRE