

- Part I -

UNLEARNED ILLUSIONS

*For, having grown world-wise through harshly unlearned illusion,
The traveller into time arrives at this conclusion,—
That life, encountered and unmasked in various shapes,
Dissolves in dust and cloud, and thwartingly escapes.*

— Siegfried Sassoon, Vigils VII