

PHILADELPHIA'S 'BLACK MAFIA'
A Social and Political History

STUDIES OF ORGANISED CRIME

---

Volume 2

---

Series Editors:

Alan A. Block, *Crime, Law & Justice Program, Department of Sociology,
The Pennsylvania State University, U.S.A.*

Frank Bovenkerk, University of Utrecht, Willem Pompe Institute, The Netherlands

Editorial Board:

Maria Los, University of Ottawa, Canada

Letizia Paoli, Max Planck Institut, Freiberg, Germany

Francisco Thoumi, Senior Visiting Scholar at the Latin American and Caribbean Center, Florida International University, U.S.A.

Xiabo Lu, Columbia University, NY, U.S.A.

A list of books in this series appears at the end of this volume.

PHILADELPHIA'S 'BLACK MAFIA'

A SOCIAL AND POLITICAL HISTORY

BY

SEAN PATRICK GRIFFIN

*Clemson University, Department of Sociology,
Clemson, South Carolina, USA*

KLUWER ACADEMIC PUBLISHERS

NEW YORK, BOSTON, DORDRECHT, LONDON, MOSCOW

eBook ISBN: 0-306-48132-4
Print ISBN: 1-4020-1311-6

©2003 Kluwer Academic Publishers
New York, Boston, Dordrecht, London, Moscow

Print ©2003 Kluwer Academic Publishers
Dordrecht

All rights reserved

No part of this eBook may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, recording, or otherwise, without written consent from the Publisher

Created in the United States of America

Visit Kluwer Online at: <http://kluweronline.com>
and Kluwer's eBookstore at: <http://ebooks.kluweronline.com>

TABLE OF CONTENTS

LIST OF FIGURES	ix
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	x
CHAPTER 1: Introduction	1
Organization of the Book	4
CHAPTER 2: Research Methodology	6
Data	6
Law Enforcement Intelligence Documents	6
Newspaper Sources	9
Interview Data	10
Methodology	11
Terminology	14
PART I: SOCIAL HISTORY, 1968–1974
CHAPTER 3: 1968-1972: The Origins of the Black Mafia	17
Group Origin	17
Nation of Islam Mosque No. 12	21
The Dubrow Furniture Store Robbery	30
The Killing of “Fat” Tyrone Palmer	32
CHAPTER 4: 1973–1974: Murder and Infamy	35
The Hanafi Murders	35
The Kelly Robbery/Kidnapping	40
The Murder of Major Coxson	41
Ronald Harvey: Profile of a Black Mafia Executioner	45
James Fox and Lonnie Dawson	50
James G. Fox	50
Lonnie Dawson	51
The Extortion of Ulysses Rice (owner of Nookie’s Tavern)	54
The Murder of James Price	57
Group Organization, 1968–1974	61
Meetings, Rules and Oath	61
Structure	62
CHAPTER 5: 1968–1974: Social Movements, Social Systems and the Black Mafia	67

Urban America, 1960–1980	67
Philadelphia, 1960–1975: African-Americans and a Dying American City	68
Social Movements and Police-Community Relations	70
The Black Mafia’s Flexing Web of Politicians, Lawyers and Financiers	75
Significant Social and Political Associates	76
Cecil B. Moore	76
Stanley E. Branche	78
Gus E. Lacy	80
John “Stan the Man” Watson	82
James “Foo-Foo” Ragan	83
Black Mafia Attorneys	83
A. Benjamin Johnson	84
Barry H. Denker	84
Kenneth S. Harris	85
Nino V. Tinari	86
 CHAPTER 6: The Politics of Ignorance and the Art of Exploitation	 89
Community “Front” Organizations	89
The Politics of “Community Development”	89
Philadelphia’s War on Poverty	92
Council for Youth and Urban Development, Inc., and Community Urban Development, Inc.	94
Black B., Inc.	96
Law Enforcement’s “Response” to the Black Mafia	101
Law Enforcement’s Pre-Occupation with Italian-American Organized Crime	102
Fear and Intimidation	104
Ambivalence and Animosity	106
Political and Racial Sensitivity	108
 PART II: SOCIAL HISTORY, 1975–2002
 CHAPTER 7: 1975–1984: Philadelphia’s Black Mafia on the Wane	 113
The Murder of Herschell “Jolly Green Giant” Williams	116
The Gruby and Kelly Murders	118
The Black Mafia’s Last (Noteworthy) Stand	120
 CHAPTER 8: 1985–2002: Old Heads, Old Habits	 124

PART III: CRIMINOLOGY AND THE HISTORY OF AFRICAN-AMERICAN ORGANIZED CRIME
CHAPTER 9: Discussion: Contemporary Academic Perspectives on the Black Mafia and African-American Organized Crime	137
On Current Interpretations of Philadelphia's Black Mafia and Primary Sources	137
The Pennsylvania Crime Commission Analyses of Philadelphia's Black Mafia	138
Commission Reports: 1980, 1988, 1990 and 1991	138
General Methodological Concerns	139
General Concerns Relating to the Commission's Black Mafia Analyses	139
Specific Concerns Relating to the Commission's Black Mafia Analyses	140
African-American Organized Crime: An "Emerging" Phenomenon?	142
What is "Emerging"?	142
Non-Sicilian/Italian Organized Crime is Emerging	142
Non-Sicilian/Italian Organized Crime Research is Emerging	143
Possible Reasons for the Competing Hypotheses	145
On the Definition of Organized Crime	145
On the Relative Lack of African-American Organized Crime Data	146
African-American Organized Crime-Specific and -Related Literature: A Review	147
Gambling and Political Graft	148
Prostitution and Drug Trafficking	151
Organized Crime and Racketeering	152
CHAPTER 10: Conclusions	157
Patron-Client Networks and the Social System of Organized Crime	159
Unresolved Questions and Suggestions for Research	162
Summing Up	164
EPILOGUE: On the Lack of African-American (and other) Organized Crime Research	167
The Relative Dearth of African-American Organized Crime Research	167
African-Americans do not organize crime	169
Researching African-American organized crime is immoral (or worse)	169
The Lack (and Quality) of Organized Crime Research	173
The Quantification of Sociological Research	173
Graduate Training in Criminology	176
The Trend Away from Interdisciplinary Research	178

---

The Political Nature of Organized Crime Research	179
The Perils of Field Research	180
APPENDIX A: General Orders for Mosque No. 12	183
APPENDIX B: Instructions for Guarding Doors of Mosque No. 12	184
APPENDIX C: Surveillance Photo of Mosque No. 12, 3700 Germantown Avenue (1/28/74)	186
APPENDIX D: Surveillance Photo of Mosque No. 12, 41 st Street and Haverford Avenue (1/28/74)	187
APPENDIX E: Written Rules for Black B. Incorporated Members, December 1973	188
APPENDIX F: Oath of Membership	190
APPENDIX G: Black Mafia Guidelines for Obtaining Government Funding	192
APPENDIX H: Junior Black Mafia Ring	194
APPENDIX I: Black Mafia Murders	195
APPENDIX J: "African-American Organized Crime: An 'Emerging' Phenomenon?" Textbooks Reviewed	197
AUTHOR INDEX	201
SUBJECT INDEX	203

LIST OF FIGURES

FIGURE 3.1	Original Black Mafia Members, 1968	18
FIGURE 3.2	Nation of Islam Mosque No. 12 (Black Mafia headquarters), Park Avenue and Susquehanna Street, January 1974	27
FIGURE 3.3	“Merger” Benefits	28
FIGURE 4.1	“Wanted” Poster for Ronald Harvey, December 1973	44
FIGURE 4.2	The Black Mafia Ball, December 31, 1973	53
FIGURE 4.3	Black Mafia Command Structure for Selected Dates	64
FIGURE 4.4	Structural Comparisons of Black Mafia Organization(s)	65
FIGURE 4.5	Organizational Chart of the Black Mafia Circa 1973	66
FIGURE 5.1	Philadelphia Police Department-Related Political Events (1967-1972)	74
FIGURE 6.1	Incorporation Papers for Council for Youth and Urban Development Inc.	94
FIGURE 6.2	Incorporation Papers for Community Urban 95 Development Inc.	95
FIGURE 6.3	Incorporation Papers for Black B. Inc.	96
FIGURE 6.4	Structural Comparison of Black Mafia and Black B. Inc.	97

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This book is an extension of my doctoral dissertation, and I thus would like to start by thanking the generous faculty in the Department of Sociology's Crime, Law and Justice program at Penn State University, especially Alan Block, Tom Bernard, John Kramer and Ed Walsh. John and Ed gave me great ideas, and provided constructive criticisms in the earlier stages of research for the book. I first "discovered" Alan in 1988 as an undergraduate in the former Administration of Justice Department when I took his course on the international traffic in narcotics. I found the material fascinating and left his lectures dizzy from the information imparted. The following semester, I took his organized crime course and was again overwhelmed with the material. More specifically, I was impressed with his command of the information, and especially of his presentations. This, I thought, is what I would love to do given the opportunity. He remains the standard by which I judge myself in the classroom. When I returned to Penn State for my graduate work in the 1990s, Alan became a mentor in the truest sense of the word. I have also been greatly assisted, in various ways, by Tom, whose counsel on a host of academic matters has spared me a great deal of anguish over the years. Alan and Tom each played large roles in the dissertation.

My "Penn State Experience" dates back to the 1980s, when the Administration of Justice Department was populated by energetic, inspiring instructors and professors. I need to thank several other people from that era who were also influential in my decision to pursue a Ph.D. in the first place. They each remain good friends and colleagues, and assist me whenever the need arises. The assistance, in differing capacities, of Ed Donovan, Philip Jenkins, Jennifer and Steve Mastrofski, John Sullivan and Bill Walsh aided my research agenda. The collegial support of my grad cohorts during those tumultuous times, Jeff McIllwain and Kim Menard, was also greatly appreciated.

I must extend thanks to the staffers at Penn State, and to all of the assistants, secretaries and others at many locations (e.g. police departments, federal agencies, archives, libraries, newsrooms, etc.). More than any other one assistant throughout the ten years of research, I was fortunate to work with a bright, hard-working undergraduate assistant, Rebecca Heuser. Rebecca spent countless hours pouring over microfiche in the basement of Penn State's Pattee Library searching for dated news articles, evaluating their significance with me, answering historical questions and drafting new ones. Her great work became the centerpiece for several lines of inquiry presented in the book.

The latter stages of the research were conducted at Clemson University (South Carolina), with the support of former Department of Sociology chair John Ryan (who unfortunately for us left to take a similar position at Virginia Polytechnic [Virginia Tech] University). In John's absence, several colleagues filled the void, especially Jim Hawdon and Catherine Mobley. Without all of their gracious time, consideration and help, this book would not have been feasible. Several graduate students at Clemson assisted me in various ways, and I need to thank Kirsten Harken, Sean Coleman, Emily Rydell, and Chris Selzer for their diligence and patience.

---

Many current and former members of law enforcement agencies and prosecutors' offices made themselves, and often their files and documents, available to me. For many reasons, I cannot identify them by name, but I have thanked each of them personally. I'd also like to thank the journalists who assisted me, especially Jim Nicholson and Kitty Caparella. The interpretation of all of the information provided by the many sources is, of course, my responsibility.

On a personal note, I wish to publicly express my immeasurable gratitude to my parents, Frank and Pat, and my brother, Jim, for their undying support. My mother and father decided long ago that my life (and my brother's) would be far different – and far better – than anything they would have dreamed for themselves. Their sacrifices have directly and indirectly made this book possible. I can only hope that I may provide – in a variety of ways – for my family, as they have for me. Speaking of sacrifice ...

My wife, Deborah, has sacrificed a great deal while I've been consumed by the demands placed on aspiring, junior scholars. Among numerous other things, she has put her career aside, orchestrated three significant moves (each one farther away from her friends and family than the last), and has managed each and every aspect of our lives for the past several years. Most of all, she has forfeited any sense of normalcy for the benefit of my productivity and, more importantly, to ensure our children are cared for and raised properly.

Deb, while all of the people I've mentioned above indeed merit thanks, readers will never grasp how much you endured in the course of this research. For your support, your love, and all you've done for Kelly and Connor, thank you.