

PART I

THE STARTING GATE

Starting with the process of looking for and negotiating an academic position, the chapters in Part I focus on beginning a career as an Academic Scientist. Issues discussed include setting up a lab, writing and submitting grant applications, managing a laboratory, and contributing to the academics of a department. A number of worksheets and database files are included in the Appendix and CD for use with the chapters.