Dance Ethnography and Global Perspectives

This page intentionally left blank

Dance Ethnography and Global Perspectives

Identity, Embodiment and Culture

Edited by

Linda E. Dankworth

Independent Researcher

and

Ann R. David

University of Roehampton, UK

palgrave
macmillan

Introduction, selection and editorial matter © Linda E. Dankworth and Ann R. David 2014

Individual chapters © Contributors 2014

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2014 978-1-137-00943-2

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No portion of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, Saffron House, 6–10 Kirby Street, London EC1N 8TS.

Any person who does any unauthorized act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

The authors have asserted their rights to be identified as the authors of this work in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

First published 2014 by
PALGRAVE MACMILLAN

Palgrave Macmillan in the UK is an imprint of Macmillan Publishers Limited, registered in England, company number 785998, of Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS.

Palgrave Macmillan in the US is a division of St Martin's Press LLC, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Palgrave Macmillan is the global academic imprint of the above companies and has companies and representatives throughout the world.

Palgrave® and Macmillan® are registered trademarks in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-349-43605-7 ISBN 978-1-137-00944-9 (eBook)
DOI 10.1057/9781137009449

This book is printed on paper suitable for recycling and made from fully managed and sustained forest sources. Logging, pulping and manufacturing processes are expected to conform to the environmental regulations of the country of origin.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

A catalog record for this book is available from the Library of Congress.

Typeset by MPS Limited, Chennai, India.

Contents

List of Figures and Tables	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Notes on Contributors	ix
Introduction: Global Perspectives in Ethnographic Fieldwork, Theory, and the Representation of Traditional Dance Linda E. Dankworth and Ann R. David	1
Part I Issues of Tradition, Modernity and Authenticity
1 Embodied Traditions: Gujarati (Dance) Practices of Garba and Raas in the UK context Ann R. David	13
2 How Black Is Black?: The Indigenous Atis Compete at the Ati-atihan Festival Patrick Alcedo	37
3 Performative Participation: Embodiment of Identities and Relationships in Sabar Dance Events Elina Seye	58
Part II Issues of Cultural Identity Through the Influences of Social Dance Events and Tourism
4 Uncovering the Invisible Female Dancers of Moreska : An Ethnochoreological Analysis Iva Niemčić	77
5 Embodying Cultural Identities and Creating Social Pathways through Mallorquin Dance Linda E. Dankworth	95
6 Kecak Behind the Scenes – Investigating the Kecak Network Kendra Stepputat	116
Part III Dance in Psychosocial Work, Gender and Textual Representation
7 Forced Displacement, Identity, Embodiment and Change Allison J. Singer	135

8	Sounding Contestation, Silent Suppression: Cosmopolitics and Gender in Japanese Flamenco Yolanda van Ede	154
9	Embodiment of Cultural Knowledge: An Ethnographic Analysis of Okinawan Dance Chi-fang Chao	172
	Index	191

List of Figures and Tables

Figures

1.1	Women playing garba at Navratri , London, October 2001 (credit: A. R. David)	15
1.2	Garabi – the central shrine at Navratri (credit: A. R. David)	28
2.1	Puro Ati at the Kalibo town plaza after the competition on 17 January 2009 (credit: N. Buxani)	53
5.1	Bolero – nine bar vocal melody (transcribed by A. Dankworth)	101
5.2	Ballada at Porreres with Al Mayurka , 15 February 2004 (credit: L. E. Dankworth)	103
6.1	The kecak network with its five main actors (credit: K. Stepputat, W. Kienreich)	123

Tables

5.1	The castanyoles percussive rhythm of the bolero (L. E. Dankworth, Fieldnotes, January 2003)	106
-----	--	-----

Acknowledgements

All the contributors to this book are deeply indebted to the participants in the field who provided the inspiration, the conversations and debates, the dancing and the fieldwork presence, and without whom this ethnographic work would not have taken place. We extend our thanks to you all across the global networks. A debt of gratitude is due to the following organizations that supported, through generous funding, the extensive fieldwork undertaken: The University of Tampere, Finland; the Nilo Helander Foundation, Finland and The Academy of Finland; The University of Amsterdam and the Amsterdam Institute for Social Science Research, Holland; De Montfort University, Leicester, UK; and the Arts and Humanities Research Council, UK. We, as editors, would also like to thank all the contributors to this volume as well as the staff at Palgrave Macmillan for their advice during the process of writing this joint edited book.

Notes on Contributors

Patrick Alcedo is Associate Professor in the Department of Dance at York University, Toronto. He undertook a residency in 2007 as a Rockefeller Humanities Fellow at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, DC. He currently holds Canada's Social Science Humanities Research Council creation grant for his work on performance, immigrant identities, and emotional labour among Filipino caregivers in Toronto. The key output of this grant is his forthcoming documentary film entitled A Piece of Paradise.

Chi-Fang Chao is Associate Professor in the Department of Dance, Taipei National University of the Arts. Her recent publications include a Chinese monograph entitled Dancing in the Culture: The Ethnography of Taketomi, Okinawa (2010) as well as articles in the Taiwan Journal of Anthropology and Art Review. She served as the curator for the first Festival of World Indigenous Peoples' Music and Dance in Taiwan in July 2011.

Linda E. Dankworth is an Independent Researcher and was awarded a PhD in Dance Ethnography in 2010 at De Montfort University, Leicester. Publications include articles in CORD, ICTM Proceedings, and Journal of Tourism Consumption and Practice. She was a Co-Director of the workshops of the World Folk Dance Festival (WFDF) in Palma Mallorca (2005–11), and an Assessor for London Arts Dance Unit (2001–02). She worked for many years as a Performance Studies Lecturer and Community Dance Teacher for Camden and Westminster Colleges, AE and FE Institutes in London. Her training has included ballet, contemporary dance, folk, jazz, and tap dance.

Ann R. David is Head of Dance and Reader in Dance Studies at the University of Roehampton, London, where she specializes in dance anthropology and South Asian classical and popular dance. She gained her PhD in Dance Ethnography at De Montfort University, Leicester, and her research work has focused on the movement practices, including dance and ritual, of Hindu groups in the United Kingdom. She is now co-investigator for a new AHRC-funded project titled, 'The Southall Story', which examines the cultural life and history of the Southall area of west London. David has given Research Seminars at Oxford University, Cardiff, Southampton, and Surrey Universities and has published widely in dance and other interdisciplinary journals. Her dance training is in Bharatanatyam and Kathak, as well as ballet, contemporary, and folk styles.

Yolanda van Ede is Assistant Professor in the Sociology and Anthropology department at the University of Amsterdam. She received her PhD in 1999 at the Amsterdam Institute for Social Science Research (AISSR) on an ethnohistorical investigation of a Tibetan Buddhist nunnery in Nepal. She has published on gender, ritual and religion, ethnographic methods, the anthropology of the senses, and writing culture. In 2006 she returned to her initial passion, dance.

Iva Niemčić is a Research Associate and Assistant Director of the Institute of Ethnology and Folklore Research in Zagreb, Croatia. In 2007, she received a PhD in the field of ethnology at the Faculty of Philosophy, University of Zagreb. Niemčić is the author of a book on traditional dance, titled Lastovski poklad. Plesno-etnološka studija/Lastovo Carnival (2011).

Elina Seye is a doctoral candidate in Ethnomusicology at the School of Social Sciences and Humanities at the University of Tampere, Finland. Her doctoral thesis, due to be completed in 2014, is an ethnographic study of Senegalese sabar dance events, with a focus on how the sabar tradition, as well as identities and interpersonal relationships become embodied through dance and music during these events.

Allison J. Singer is an Independent Researcher. She is a dance anthropologist and a drama and dance movement psychotherapist, and holds a PhD in Dance Ethnography and an MMus in Ethnomusicology. Her clinical experience includes work with refugee and internally displaced people, children, elderly people, and people with profound and complex learning difficulties. Singer was the Programme Leader for the MA Drama Therapy Programme at the University of Derby 2005–7.

Kendra Stepputat is Senior Lecturer at the Institute of Ethnomusicology at the University of Music and Performing Arts (KUG), Graz. She studied Ethnomusicology and Communication Science at the Free University Berlin, as well as Southeast Asian Studies at the Humboldt University Berlin. She received her PhD in Ethnomusicology in 2010 at the KUG, and completed a scholarship year at the faculty of dance at the Highschool of Indonesian Arts (ISI) Denpasar, Bali. Stepputat has published on Balinese Performing Arts and the Tango Argentino, her current research focus.