The Public on the Public

Other Palgrave Pivot titles

Shira Chess and Eric Newsom: Folklore, Horror Stories, and the Slender Man: The Development of an Internet Mythology

John Hudson, Nam Kyoung Jo and Antonia Keung: Culture and the Politics of Welfare: Exploring Societal Values and Social Choices

Paula Loscocco: Phillis Wheatly's Miltonic Poetics

Mark Axelrod: Notions of the Feminine: Literary Essays from Dostoyevsky to Lacan

John Coyne and Peter Bell: The Role of Strategic Intelligence in Law Enforcement: Policing Transnational Organized Crime in Canada, the United Kingdom and Australia

Niall Gildea, Helena Goodwyn, Megan Kitching and Helen Tyson (editors): English Studies: The State of the Discipline, Past, Present and Future

Yoel Guzansky: The Arab Gulf States and Reform in the Middle East: Between Iran and the "Arab Spring"

Menno Spiering: A Cultural History of British Euroscepticism

Matthew Hollow: Rogue Banking: A History of Financial Fraud in Interwar Britain

Alexandra Lewis: Security, Clans and Tribes: Unstable Clans in Somaliland, Yemen and the Gulf of Aden

Sandy Schumann: How the Internet Shapes Collective Actions

Christy M. Oslund: Disability Services and Disability Studies in Higher Education: History, Contexts, and Social Impacts

Erika Mansnerus: Modelling in Public Health Research: How Mathematical Techniques Keep Us Healthy

William Forbes and Lynn Hodgkinson: Corporate Governance in the United Kingdom: Past, Present and Future

palgrave▶pivot

The Public on the Public: The British Public as Trust, Reflexivity and Political Foreclosure

Claire Westall

Lecturer, University of York, UK

and

Michael Gardiner

Professor, University of Warwick, UK

palgrave
macmillan

© Claire Westall and Michael Gardiner 2014
Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 2013 SBN 978-1-137-35133-3

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No portion of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, Saffron House, 6-10 Kirby Street, London EC1N 8TS.

Any person who does any unauthorized act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

The authors have asserted their rights to be identified as the authors of this work in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

First published 2014 by
PALGRAVE MACMILLAN

Palgrave Macmillan in the UK is an imprint of Macmillan Publishers Limited, registered in England, company number 785998, of Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS.

Palgrave Macmillan in the US is a division of St Martin's Press LLC, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Palgrave Macmillan is the global academic imprint of the above companies and has companies and representatives throughout the world.

Palgrave® and Macmillan® are registered trademarks in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-349-46878-2 ISBN 978-1-137-35134-0 (eBook)

DOI 10.1057/9781137351340

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

A catalog record for this book is available from the Library of Congress.

www.palgrave.com/pivot

Contents

Acknowledgements	vi
1 Introduction: We Are Not ‘the Public’	1
2 The Public as Financial Trust	13
3 The Public as Cultural Commonwealth	32
4 Public Participation as Debt Demand	55
5 Public Reflexivity as Political Foreclosure	78
6 The Arts of Public Value	104
7 Coda: On Not Saving ‘the Public’	121
Bibliography	125
Index	140

Acknowledgements

► This short incursion into debates about the crisis of the public realm, the constitutional continuity of the British public and the significance of public values owes much to recent and ongoing analyses of the financialising and atomising pressures bearing down on our daily, and especially our professional, lives. A wide range of people – colleagues, students, friends and public figures – have informed our understanding of the pressing need to challenge the everyday, yet historically determined, political paralysis wrought by the financial and emotional power of ‘the public’. While some may see our effort as going against the grain of collective endeavour and organised action, we offer our challenge in the spirit of creative critique and as a necessary, even overdue, reorientation. It is certainly not in the spirit of 1945 Blitz survivalism. Here, we want to warmly thank those friends and allies who’ve engaged in debates about the status and history of ‘the public’, especially at the Universities of Warwick and York, participants of the ‘Neoliberalism, Crisis and the World System’ conference at York in 2013, writers for Bella Caledonia and openDemocracy, and others who have pressed the constitutional prescience of the 2014 Scottish Independence Referendum. Our gratitude also goes to Professor John Holmwood for supporting this project at its inception, and Professor Jason Edwards and Lucy Potter for offering valuable commentary on our work in progress. Notable thanks also go to Naomi Robinson and Emily Russell at Palgrave Macmillan for their editorial assistance, patience and support. We would also like to take this opportunity to call attention to the intellectual labour, academic mentorship and personal integrity of Professor Thomas Docherty, of the Department of English and Comparative Literary Studies at Warwick. He is an example to us, and many others.