I have many people to thank for helping me through the process of writing this book. First and foremost, none of this would have been possible without the help and support of Justin Edwards, who supervised my doctoral research at Bangor University. This book began as a thesis, and it was his outstanding advice, excellent support and great friendship that made this book possible. Without him, this book would never have been written. I would also like to thank my colleagues at Roskilde University, particularly Dr Lars Jensen. Their encouragement and advice got me through the difficult parts of the project. Dr Jensen's suggestions greatly strengthened my work. I am infinitely grateful to my friends for their emotional and intellectual support. Without them, the process of writing this book would have been so much more difficult. I would like to thank my parents, Ljiljana and David, for their financial and emotional backing. I want to express my love to Sunam Lee. This would not have been possible without your love and support. Finally, I would like to thank Ben Doyle and Sophie Ainscough at Palgrave Macmillan as well as the anonymous readers for their thoughtful and constructive criticism.
