ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am indebted to Georgia Warnke's After Identity as serving as one of the main impetuses for this book. And I have very much appreciated the various exchanges we have had (both formal and informal) in which she has carefully and critically read and commented on my work. I have also benefited immensely from the challenging, clarifying, and insightful comments of Sally Haslanger and other WOGAP participants on a part of Chapter 2 that I presented at MIT. I am grateful to Rachel Fredericks and Esa Diaz-Leon, both of whom took time and care to read and comment on parts of Chapter 4. I am also appreciative of the anonymous reviewers along the way who have helped me make this a stronger final project. Colleagues (present and former) in the Gordon philosophy department have patiently entertained conversations with me about various arguments pertaining to my book: Ian Deweese-Boyd, Mark Gedney, and Brian Glenney. My student Shalom Maleachi provided valuable research assistance as I finished the editing details. And I am extremely thankful to have had the encouragement and support of others in a variety of ways throughout this journey: Richard J. Bernstein, Kathleen Wright, Monica Vilhauer, and Pablo Muchnik.

Gordon College generously provided me with sabbatical time, and awarded me both a Summer Stipend and an Initiative Grant, in order to help me complete this book in a shorter time frame.
