

THE CREATING WORD

THE CREATING WORD

Papers from an International Conference on the Learning and Teaching of English in the 1980s

Edited with an Introduction by Patricia Demers

M
MACMILLAN

Introduction © Patricia Demers 1986
© The Macmillan Press Ltd 1986

Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 1986 978-0-333-39132-7

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No paragraph of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright Act 1956 (as amended).

Any person who does any unauthorised act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

First published 1986

Published by
THE MACMILLAN PRESS LTD
Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 2XS
and London
Companies and representatives
throughout the world

Typeset by
Wessex Typesetters
Frome, Somerset

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data
Creating Word. Conference
The Creating Word: papers from an international conference on the learning and teaching of English in the 1980s.
1. English language—Study and teaching
2. English literature—Study and teaching
I. Title II. Demers, Patricia
420'.7 PE1065

ISBN 978-1-349-07956-8 ISBN 978-1-349-07954-4 (cBook)
DOI 10.1007/978-1-349-07954-4

Contents

Acknowledgements	vi
Notes on the Contributors	vii
Introduction	1
1 Rhetoric and Rightness: Some Fallacies in a Science of Language Jacques Barzun	7
2 Construing and Deconstructing M. H. Abrams	30
3 The Literary Transaction Louise M. Rosenblatt	66
4 The Teaching of Poetry Robin Skelton	86
5 Seizing the Shining Reality: the Novel in the Classroom Norman Page	101
6 Teaching the Novel: the Creative Word in Great Expectations Rowland McMaster	116
7 Creative Writing: Can It Be Taught? Rudy Wiebe	134
8 Writing: Self-Consciousness and a Change in Reality? John Dixon	146
9 What Is Language for?: a Functional View of the Language Arts Martha King	158
10 Language, Literature and the Computer Keith Smillie	177
11 Canadian Literature in the Secondary Curriculum Susan Jackel	197
Index	211

Acknowledgements

Many agencies and individuals assisted in the organization of the conference and in the production of this volume. Among them are the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, Alberta Education and the Minister of Education, the Honourable David King, Alberta Culture and its Director of Film and Literary Arts, John Patrick Gillese, and at the University of Alberta, the President, Myer Horowitz, the Vice-President (Research), Gordin Kaplan, the Dean of Arts, Terrence White, the Dean of Education, Robert Patterson, and the Conference Fund. A particular debt of gratitude is owed to the regular and special members of the joint-faculty Continuing English Program Committee at the University of Alberta: Fred Clandfield, David Dillon, James Forrest, Henry Hargreaves, Margaret Iveson, Marion Jenkinson, Maurice Legris, Glenn Martin, Kenneth Nixon, John Oster, Noel Parker-Jervis, James Shaw and Muriel Whitaker.

The editor and publishers wish to thank Doubleday & Company, Inc., for permission to reproduce 'My Papa's Waltz', copyright 1942 by Hearst Magazines Inc. from The Collected Poems of Theodore Roethke.

Notes on the Contributors

M. H. Abrams is Class of 1916 Professor of English at Cornell University. An authority on European Romanticism, he is the author of The Mirror and the Lamp, The Milk of Paradise and Natural Supernaturalism. He is also the general editor of the distinguished Norton Anthology of English Literature.

Jacques Barzun is literary adviser for Charles Scribner's Sons and University Professor Emeritus at Columbia University. He is renowned as an educator and cultural historian, with such diverse publications as Teacher in America, Berlioz and his Century, The American University, Clio and the Doctors, Science: the Glorious Entertainment and Simple and Direct: a Rhetoric for Writers.

John Dixon is former Professor at Breton Hall College of Education. He is a founding member of the National Association for the Teaching of English in the United Kingdom. His books include Growth through English, Patterns of Language, Explorations in the Teachings of English and Education 16–19: the Role of English and Communication.

Susan Jackel teaches in the interdisciplinary Canadian Studies Program at the University of Alberta. As well as publishing a series of articles on Canadian literature and history, she is the author of A Flannel Shirt and Liberty: British Emigrant Gentlewomen in the Canadian West 1880–1914.

Martha King is Professor Emeritus of Educational Theory and Practice at Ohio State University. Among her numerous publications are Teaching Critical Reading to Elementary School Children and The Language Arts in the Elementary School: a Forum for Focus.

Rowland McMaster is Professor of English at the University of Alberta. He has published editions of Dickens's Great Expectations and Little Dorrit as well as many articles on Victorian literature and, with his wife, Juliet McMaster, The English Novel from Sterne to James.

Norman Page is Professor of English at the University of Alberta. In addition to numerous articles on Victorian literature, he has written critical studies about many novelists, among them Wilkie Collins, Thomas Hardy, E. M. Forster, D. H. Lawrence and Vladimir Nabokov.

Louise M. Rosenblatt is Professor Emeritus of English Education at New York University. An acknowledged educator, she is widely known for such books as Literature as Exploration and The Reader, the Text, the Poem: the Transactional Theory of the Literary Work.

Robin Skelton is Professor of English at the University of Victoria. He is the author of critical studies of poetry, such as J. M. Synge, The Poetic Pattern and Poetic Truth, and of several volumes of his own poems, among them Callsigns and Spellcraft.

Keith Smillie is Professor of Computing Science at the University of Alberta. He worked for several years in Ottawa as a statistician and mathematician for private industry and the federal government. His main interests are the historical development and use of programming languages, the history of computation, and mathematics and science education.

Rudy Wiebe is Professor of English at the University of Alberta. He has received the Governor General's Award for The Temptations of Big Bear and has written or edited eighteen books of fiction, non-fiction and drama, many based on the history and people of western Canada.