Social work is at an important stage in its development. All professions must be responsive to changing social and economic conditions if they are to meet the needs of those they serve. This series focuses on sound practice and the specific contributions which social workers can make to the well-being of our society.

The British Association of Social Workers has always been conscious of its role in setting guidelines for practice and in seeking to raise professional standards. The conception of the Practical Social Work series arose from a survey of BASW members to discover where they, the practitioners in social work, felt there was the most need for new literature. The response was overwhelming and enthusiastic, and the result is a carefully planned, coherent series of books. The emphasis is firmly on practice set in a theoretical framework. The books will inform, stimulate and promote discussion, thus adding to the further development of skills and high professional standards. All the authors are practitioners and teachers of social work representing a wide variety of experience.

Acknowledgements

We should like to take this opportunity to thank the managers and officers in the social services and probation departments where our evaluation projects were undertaken. Our thanks also to members of management committees, users, workers and volunteers in voluntary projects and community groups with whom we have engaged in evaluations. To the funders of these evaluations we express our appreciation. Their encouragement and support of our attempts to develop critical approaches to evaluation have been invaluable.

Our ideas for this book have developed in valuable discussions with colleagues, students and practitioners.

In particular, we express our appreciation to Jane Aldgate, Mary Barker, Noel Timms and Andrew Willis. Dorothy Stock Whitaker has taken a lively interest in our work and offered wise advice and guidance. Lucy Panasiuk has once again demonstrated her superb administrative and word-processing skills with her usual generosity – we thank her.

The evaluation work of the Social Welfare Research Unit owes much to Chris Johnson who, with Tony Jeffs and Pam Carter, helped set up the Unit. As loyal but critical colleagues and friends they continue to be invaluable. And thanks to all colleagues in the Social Welfare Research Unit, research staff, associates and students, for commitment ‘beyond the call of duty’.

Jo Campling and Catherine Gray have facilitated our path through to publication.
