Social work is at an important stage in its development. All professions must be responsive to changing social and economic conditions if they are to meet the needs of those they serve. This series focuses on sound practice and the specific contribution which social workers can make to the well-being of our society.

The British Association of Social Workers has always been conscious of its role in setting guidelines for practice and in seeking to raise professional standards. The conception of the Practical Social Work series arose from a survey of BASW members to discover where they, the practitioners in social work, felt there was the most need for new literature. The response was overwhelming and enthusiastic, and the result is a carefully planned, coherent series of books. The emphasis is firmly on practice set in a theoretical framework. The books will inform, stimulate and promote discussion, thus adding to the further development of skills and high professional standards. All the authors are practitioners and teachers of social work representing a wide variety of experience.

This book has grown out of the opportunities I have had, since being involved with direct social work delivery, to reflect on my own, and others' practice. I have learnt more from service users and clients than from anyone and I am indebted to their ability to share their thoughts and experiences with me over a number of years.

I have been greatly influenced by and am grateful to my colleagues in practice, particularly to those I learnt a great deal from, including Sue Anderson, Jeanette Brewster, Charlie Burr, Chris Cotter, Barbara Eaton, Ena Fry, Joy Howard, Peter Morgan, Jenny Pearce, Pilly Sharpe, Jane Stacey and Robert Wilson.

My time as a principal lecturer at Middlesex University enabled me to relate my practice experience to a theoretical base. I wish to acknowledge the input of the following to that process: Anthony Borgiono, Elaine Creith, Jane Dutton, Tony Goodman, MaryAnn Henderson, Ravi Kohli, Michele McCarthy, Cathy McGowen, Jenny Pearce, Phil Slater, and the many lesbian and gay students who helped me deconstruct and reconstruct some of my ideas.

The writing, collating and production of the book has been facilitated by inputs from firstly, Diane Adderley (who proof read and typed the first draft), Kate Jarvis, Dawn Sharpe and my very patient and supportive editor, Jo Campling, and the helpful contribution of my two anonymous readers.

My thanks go to the following organisations and individuals who were generous with their thoughts, materials, information and guidance: The Albert Kennedy Trust, All Saints Bookshop (Middlesex University), Angie Mason and Stonewall, Anthea Lowe of the Anti-discrimination Board of New South Wales, AUT (Association of University Teachers), GALOP (Gay London Policing Group), Gays the Word, NAPO (National Association of Probation Officers), NATFHE (National Association of Teachers in Further and Higher Education), Rights of Women Lesbian Custody Group and UNISON.

Underpinning the over-long completion of this project has been the support of my friends and children. My gratitude is due to Aaron Brown, Julian Lousada, Clare Parkinson, Jo Rosenthal, Casey Ryan, Clare Widgery and Elaine Creith, who at the end gave invaluable practical and intellectual support.
