

CONTEMPORARY SOCIAL THEORY

General Editor: ANTHONY GIDDENS

This series aims to create a forum for debate between different theoretical and philosophical traditions in the social sciences. As well as covering broad schools of thought, the series will also concentrate upon the work of particular thinkers whose ideas have had a major impact on social science (these books appear under the sub-series title of 'Theoretical Traditions in the Social Sciences'). The series is not limited to abstract theoretical discussion – it will also include more substantive works on contemporary capitalism, the state, politics and other subject areas.

Preface

We began work on this volume in the summer of 1978. Since then our task, which we have shared equally, has been made all the more pleasurable by the enthusiastic co-operation of our contributors. Special thanks are due to Anthony Giddens and Thomas McCarthy who, in addition to writing essays for the volume, provided us with invaluable advice. We should like, finally, to express our gratitude to Jürgen Habermas for his willing participation in the project.
