The Making of the 20th Century

This series of specially commissioned titles focuses attention on significant and often controversial events and themes of world history in the present century. Each book provides sufficient narrative and explanation for the newcomer to the subject while offering, for more advanced study, detailed source-references and bibliographies, together with interpretation and reassessment in the light of recent scholarship.

In the choice of subjects there is a balance between breadth in some spheres and detail in others; between the essentially political and matters economic or social. The series cannot be a comprehensive account of everything that has happened in the twentieth century, but it provides a guide to recent research and explains something of the times of extraordinary change and complexity in which we live. It is directed in the main to students of contemporary history and international relations, but includes titles which are of direct relevance to courses in economics, sociology, politics and geography.

The Making of the 20th Century

Series Editor: GEOFFREY WARNER

Already published

- David Armstrong, *The Rise of the International Organisation:
A Short History*
V. R. Berghahn, Germany and the Approach of War in 1914
Brian J. L. Berry, *Comparative Urbanisation: Divergent Paths
in the Twentieth Century*
Richard Bosworth, Italy and the Approach of the First World War
Peter Calvert, Latin America: Internal Conflict and International Peace
Anthony Harrison, The Framework of Economic Activity: The International Economy and the Rise of the State
John Keiger, France and the Origins of the First World War
Desmond King-Hele, The End of the Twentieth Century?
Dominic Lieven, Russia and the Origins of the First World War
Peter Mansfield, The Ottoman Empire and its Successors
Sally Marks, The Illusion of Peace: International Relations in Europe 1918-1933
A. J. Nicholls, Weimar and the Rise of Hitler
B. N. Pandey, The Break-up of British India
B. N. Pandey, South and South-east Asia 1945-1979: Problems and Policies
David Rees, The Age of Containment: The Cold War
Esmonde M. Robertson, Mussolini as Empire-BUILDER
Zara Steiner, Britain and the Origins of the First World War
Richard Storry, Japan and the Decline of the West in Asia 1894-1942
Christopher Thorne, The Approach of War 1938-1939
Hugh Tinker, Race, Conflict and the International Order
Wang Gungwu, China and the World since 1949
Ann Williams, Britain and France in the Middle East and North Africa
Elizabeth Wiskemann, Fascism in Italy: Its Development and Influence
R. T. Thomas, Britain and Vichy: The Dilemma of Anglo-French Relations 1940-1942

Titles in preparation include

- Steven Ashton, In Search of Detente 1945-1982
Dennis Austin, Africa in the 1980s
John Darwin, Britain and Decolonisation 1945-1965
John Fox, *Nazi Germany, The Great Powers and European Jewry
1933-1945*
Edward Harrison, Hitler's Germany

France and the Origins of the First World War

John F. V. Keiger

M

© John F. V. Keiger 1983

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted, in any form or by any means,
without permission.

First published 1983 by
THE MACMILLAN PRESS LTD
London and Basingstoke
Companies and representatives
throughout the world

ISBN 978-0-333-28552-7

ISBN 978-1-349-17209-2 (eBook)
DOI 10.1007/978-1-349-17209-2

Typeset by
WESSEX TYPESETTERS LTD
Frome, Somerset

The paperback edition of this book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, resold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent, in any form of binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
1 The Search for Security: French Foreign Policy, 1871–1907	4
2 Bureaucrats and Diplomats: A Period of Independence, 1905–11	25
3 Raymond Poincaré: A New Style in French Diplomacy	44
4 France and the Triple Alliance in 1912	55
France and Italy	56
France and Germany	68
France and Austria–Hungary	81
5 France and the Triple Entente in 1912	87
France and Russia	88
France and Great Britain	102
6 Poincaré President of the Republic and French Foreign Policy, 1913–14	117
7 The July Crisis	145
Conclusion	165
Chronological Table	168
Bibliography	173
Notes and References	181
Index	195

TO MY PARENTS

Acknowledgements

I should like to express my gratitude to those friends and colleagues who by their help and encouragement have made this study possible. First and foremost I owe an especial debt of gratitude to Dr Christopher Andrew of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, for having first focused my attention on the French diplomatic history of this period and for then having guided and encouraged me along the academic road. I am very grateful to the late Jacques Millerand for his warm hospitality during my year-long stay in Paris and for having given me the benefit of his personal experience and knowledge of the personalities and the period I have chosen to study, and for having brought me a little closer to an understanding of their aims and objectives. Professor Jean-Claude Allain, now of the Université du Maine, was also very helpful during that year in Paris, while M. Louis Cambon very kindly allowed me to consult the family private papers in his possession.

Dr Robert Tombs of St John's College, Cambridge, deserves warm thanks for his enlightening comments and corrections to the manuscript and generally for his friendship and kindness which have stimulated my work and added to its being an enjoyable task. I am conscious too of the debt I owe my old friends from the Institut d'Etudes Politiques d'Aix-en-Provence, who first aroused my enthusiasm for France and her institutions.

Salford University and the Sir Ernest Cassel Educational Trust have provided financial support during the writing of this book. Dr Ralph White and Dr Chris Lyons and Mr Chris Ryder either suggested valuable alterations to the manuscript or helped with proof-reading, while Professor Geoffrey Warner, the editor of this series, suggested many useful improvements. Miss Jill Littlewood deserves special mention for painstakingly and patiently typing the manuscript, for suggesting many stylistic improvements and generally for cheerful and witty support. The staff of the many archives and libraries in which I have worked, in particular at the Ministère des Affaires Etrangères, the Bibliothèque de l'Institut de France and in the Archives Nationales in Paris, have been generous with their time and assistance and I gratefully acknowledge their help. My greatest debt of thanks, finally, is to my parents, who, I hope, understand what I owe them.

To everyone mentioned, and many others including Peter and little Ben, who at five already seems to be asking the questions that historians of my age should have been asking long ago, I express my sincerest thanks while accepting all responsibility for the errors and imperfections that remain.