

CONTEMPORARY SOCIAL THEORY

General Editor: ANTHONY GIDDENS

This series aims to create a forum for debate between different theoretical and philosophical traditions in the social sciences. As well as covering broad schools of thought, the series will also concentrate upon the work of particular thinkers whose ideas have had a major impact on social science (these books appear under the sub-series title of "Theoretical Traditions in the Social Sciences"). The series is not limited to abstract theoretical discussion - it will also include more substantive works on contemporary capitalism, the state, politics and other subject areas.

Five Edinburgh colleagues, Michael Barfoot, Barry Barnes, Celia Bloor, Donald MacKenzie and Steven Shapin, did me the kindness of reading the book in draft. They made extensive, precise and valuable criticisms, and I have done my best to act on them. My debts to my colleagues in fact go far beyond this. Much that is in the book has been learned from them, though the form and occasion of its expression is entirely my own responsibility. Carole Tansley generously undertook the typing of the manuscript and I am most grateful for this enormous help. Throughout the book I have made liberal use of the researches and conclusions of certain historians and anthropologists. I hope that none of them will feel that my borrowing has been too extensive. It is my way of ensuring that this book, unlike some in the area, is not all pots and pans and no pudding.

Abbreviations and Referencing Conventions

Wittgenstein's works will be cited using the abbreviations given below. Quotations will be identified by giving the part number of the book (if any), and then the paragraph number. Thus a passage from the Philosophical Investigations will be identified as, for example, PI, I, 564 – while a passage from Zettel, which is not divided into parts, will be just, say, Z, 532. In a few cases, such as the Blue and Brown Books, which are not divided into numbered paragraphs, it is appropriate to use the more normal method of just citing the page. Where numbers refer to pages this will always be indicated, e.g. BB, p.18.

- BB* The Blue and Brown Books, Oxford, Blackwell, 1969.
- CV* Culture and Value, ed. G. von Wright and H. Nyman, trans. P. Winch, Oxford, Blackwell, 1980.
- LCA* Lectures and Conversations on Aesthetics, Psychology and Religious Belief, ed. C. Barrett, Oxford, Blackwell, 1970.
- LFM* Wittgenstein's Lectures on the Foundations of Mathematics, Cambridge, 1939, ed. C. Diamond, Brighton, Harvester Press, 1976.
- NFL* Wittgenstein's Notes for Lectures on 'Private Experience' and 'Sense Data', Philosophical Review, vol.Lxxvii, 1968, 271–320.
- OC* On Certainty, ed. G. Anscombe and G. von Wright, trans. D. Paul and G. Anscombe, Oxford, Blackwell, 1969.
- PI* Philosophical Investigations, trans. G. Anscombe, Oxford, Blackwell, 1967 (first edn 1953).
- RFM* Remarks on the Foundations of Mathematics, ed. G. von Wright, R. Rhees and G. Anscombe, trans. G. Anscombe, Oxford, Blackwell, 1964.

- RPP* Remarks on the Philosophy of Psychology: vol. 1 ed. G. Anscombe and G. von Wright, trans. G. Anscombe; vol. II ed. G. von Wright and H. Nyman, trans. C. Luckhardt and M. Aue, Oxford, Blackwell, 1980.
- WWK* Wittgenstein and the Vienna Circle, conversations recorded by F. Waismann, ed. B. McGuinness, trans. J. Schulte and B. McGuinness, Oxford, Blackwell, 1979.
- Z* Zettel, ed. G. Anscombe and G. von Wright, trans. G. Anscombe, Oxford, Blackwell, 1967.

Other abbreviations that are used in the notes and references will be explained as they are introduced.
