Critical Human Geography

'Critical Human Geography' is an international series which provides a critical examination and extension of the concepts and consequences of work in human geography and the allied social sciences and humanities. The volumes are written by scholars currently engaged in substantive research, so that, wherever possible, the discussions are empirically grounded as well as theoretically informed. Existing studies and the traditions from which they derive are carefully described and located in their historically specific context, but the series at the same time introduces and explores new ideas and insights from the human sciences as a whole. The series is thus not intended as a collection of synthetic reviews, but rather as a cluster of considered arguments which are accessible enough to engage geographers at all levels in the development of geography. The series therefore reflects the continuing methodological and philosophical diversity of the subject, and its books are united only by their common commitment to the prosecution of a genuinely human geography.

*Department of Geography
University of Cambridge
England*

MARK BILLINGE
DEREK GREGORY
RON MARTIN

Critical Human Geography

PUBLISHED

Recollections of a Revolution: Geography as Spatial Science

Mark Billinge, Derek Gregory and Ron Martin (editors)

The Arena of Capital

Michael Dunford and Diane Perrons

Regional Transformation and Industrial Revolution:

A Geography of the Yorkshire Woollen Industry

Derek Gregory

Geography and the State: An Essay in Political Geography

R. J. Johnston

Spatial Divisions of Labour: Social Structures and the Geography of Production

Doreen Massey

Conceptions of Space in Social Thought: A Geographic Perspective

Robert David Sack

The Urban Arena: Capital, State and Community

in Contemporary Britain

John R. Short

FORTHCOMING

A Cultural Geography of Industrialisation in Britain

Mark Billinge

Development Theory: A Critique of Essentialist Approaches

Stuart Corbridge and Steve Jones

Between Feudalism and Capitalism

Robert Dodgshon

Regions and the Philosophy of the Human Sciences

Nicholas Entrikin

Strategies for Geographical Enquiry

Derek Gregory and Ron Martin

Social Relations and Spatial Structures

Derek Gregory and John Urry (editors)

De-Industrialisation and the British Space Economy

Ron Martin and Bob Rowthorn (editors)

The Urban Arena

Capital, State and Community in Contemporary Britain

John R. Short

M
MACMILLAN

© John R. Short 1984

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted, in any form or by any means, without permission

First published 1984 by
Higher and Further Education Division
MACMILLAN PUBLISHERS LTD
London and Basingstoke
Companies and representatives
throughout the world

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data
Short, John R.

The urban arena: capital, state and community
in contemporary Britain.

1. Great Britain—Economic policy—1945.

I. Title

330.941'0858 HC256.6

ISBN 978-0-333-36140-5

ISBN 978-1-349-17508-6 (eBook)

DOI 10.1007/978-1-349-17508-6

For Adrienne

Contents

Acknowledgements	viii
1. Introduction	1
The urban	1
The arena	3
The approach	7
2. The Context	9
The boom: expansion and compromise	9
The slump: decline and tensions	11
3. The Response of Capital	28
Industrial capital	29
Finance capital	50
Conclusions	60
4. The State: Arena within an Arena	64
The politics of economic decline	67
Getting and spending	74
Reproducing the social order	101
The state and crises	122
5. Community Concerns	126
The context	126
Community action in the city	140
Community, capital and the state	153
Guide to Further Reading	180
Bibliography	185
Index	195

Acknowledgements

The writing of this book would not have been possible without the supportive atmosphere provided by my departmental colleagues at the University of Reading. I am particularly indebted to the staff of the drawing office for the production of the diagrams and to Chris Holland for transferring my Scottish vowels, excitable lilt and swallowed words on to the printed page. She is a marvellous typist.

I owe a special debt to Derek Gregory, who readily accepted a few jottings as proof of a manuscript and gave up the 'joys' of fatherhood for the 'delights' of editing a wild and woolly manuscript: he made many valuable suggestions.

JOHN R. SHORT

The author and publishers wish to thank the following who have kindly given permission for the use of copyright material: Chetwynd Haddons Ltd for the advertisement 'Deep in the Shropshire Countryside we've set up a completely New State' on behalf of the Telford Development Corporation; Clydebank Task Force, Scottish Development Agency, for two advertisements 'A Deal as Great as our Reputation' and 'Scotland's Enterprise Zone. Several jumps ahead'; The Controller of Her Majesty's Stationery Office for a figure from the Wilson Report, and two figures from the Economic Progress Report Nos 135 and 198; The Economist Newspaper Ltd for three charts from The Economist; Industrial Development Board for Northern Ireland for their advertisement 'New Technology? Our Northern Ireland workers take it in their stride'; The Institute of British Geographers for two figures from Area; Redditch Development Corporation for their advertisement 'There are important losses to be gained by moving to Redditch'; Rex Stewart, Mitchell Frise Ltd for the advertisement 'New Company? New Factory?' on behalf of the Borough of Newport; Warrington Runcorn Development Corporation for their advertisement 'The right move for . . . '.