Social Welfare in Third World Development

Other books by Howard Jones include

Race, Crime and Culture: A Study in a Developing Country

Issues in Social Welfare

Social Welfare in Third World Development

Howard Jones

M
MACMILLAN

© Howard Jones 1990

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No paragraph of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright Act 1956 (as amended), or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, 33–4 Alfred Place, London WC1E 7DP.

Any person who does any unauthorised act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

First published 1990

Published by
MACMILLAN EDUCATION LTD
Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 2XS and London
Companies and representatives
throughout the world

Typeset by Footnote Graphics,
Warminster, Wilts

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data
Jones, Howard

Social welfare in Third World development.

1. Developing countries. Welfare services

1. Title

361'.9172'4

ISBN 978-0-333-48843-0

ISBN 978-1-349-20525-7 (eBook)

DOI 10.1007/978-1-349-20525-7

To my wife, Bess, who has contributed so much over many years
not only to this, but also to my other books

Contents

List of Tables	viii
List of Figures	x
List of Exhibits	xi
Acknowledgements	xii
Introduction	1
1 The Economic Debate	9
2 Poverty	36
3 The Rural Majority	53
4 Third World Cities	78
5 Development and Health	106
6 Policies for Health	124
7 The Educational Scene	149
8 Ends and Means in Education	167
9 Role of the Social Worker	189
10 The Community and its Youth	208
11 Women's Rights	222
12 Population Policies	242
13 Government and Misgovernment	259
14 Social Welfare in Development	281
References and Author Index	296
Subject Index	318

List of Tables

3.1	Rural and urban populations, Estimates for 1980, 1985 and 2000, (in millions), more and less developed regions	55
4.1	Estimated percentages of the population living in urban areas, more and less developed regions	80
4.2	Percentage annual urban growth rates, more and less developed regions	80
5.1	Life expectancy at birth (years), developed and less developed countries, 1965 and 1986	107
5.2	Infant and child death rates (per 1000) in developed and less developed countries, 1965 and 1985	109
5.3	Number of deaths in major categories of cause by WHO region (thousands)	110
5.4	Child mortality according to characteristics of parents, Tanzania, 1973	117
5.5	Proportion of children dying by age 2 years in various less developed countries, according to mother's level of education	118
6.1	Hospital beds per 10 000 population, developed and developing countries	129
6.2	Population for each medical person, developed and developing countries	129
7.1	Literacy rates (per cent) for various groups of countries, 1960 and 1980	149
7.2	Primary school enrolment ratios according to the country's per capita income level, 1960–75	150
7.3	Primary school enrolment ratios for 1980 and 1985 and estimates for subsequent years	151

7.4	Percentage rates of social return to education	154
7.5	Families of 1954 Indian graduates by average monthly family income	156
7.6	Primary school enrolments as a percentage of each income group in various developing countries	158
7.7	Percentage of females in total school enrolments in underdeveloped countries	165
8.1	Results of UNESCO/UNDP literacy programme, selected countries	179
12.1	Crude birth and death rates per thousand of population for the more developed and less developed countries, 1950–90	243
12.2	Population in 1950 and 1980, and population forecasts to 2025 as assessed in 1984, more and less developed countries (millions)	244

List of Figures

1.1	Net resource transfers to developing countries 1973 to 1987	11
1.2	Real commodity prices 1970–87	24
3.1	Rural population affected by severe desertification (millions)	64
3.2	Percentage of landless and near-landless rural labour force	70
3.3	Unproductive land	75
6.1	Comparative health costs – community, preventive, curative	137
7.1	Comparative education costs – primary, secondary, higher	157
10.1	Share of youth population: developing countries	214
12.1	Average age at marriage for females in various underdeveloped countries	251
12.2	Contraception and infant mortality	255

List of Exhibits

1.1	Structuralist empiricism	20
1.2	A Marxist case for capitalism	32
2.1	Social security in South-East Asia	44
2.2	Social insurance and social justice	46
3.1	Famine and food aid	73
4.1	Growth of settlements	90
4.2	Squatting as exploitation	102
5.1	Mothers' education and child mortality rates	119
6.1	Upgrading the barefoot doctor	133
6.2	Community mental health: the Geel experience	140
7.1	Education and agricultural productivity	152
8.1	Shortcomings of literacy campaigns	177
8.2	A 'basic education' educational system	183
9.1	Duties of social workers	191
9.2	Care of the elderly: an indigenous experiment	203
11.1	Womens' share of work	224
11.2	Female separatism in the Arab world	228
13.1	Traditions and corruption	275

Acknowledgements

This book owes much to individuals who have read particular chapters or have discussed parts of its subject matter with me. I should like particularly to mention Mr M. J. Shepperdson of University College, Swansea and Dr Paul Romaya and Ms H. R. Snee of the then University of Wales Institute of Science and Technology (now the University of Wales College of Cardiff).

My further debt to those who have contributed to the scientific literature on these subjects is obvious – particularly to those whose work I have quoted directly. I hope due acknowledgement of this has been made at appropriate places in the text.

In addition the author and publishers wish to acknowledge kind permission given by the following for the inclusion of copyright material:

Center for International Studies, Cornell University, for Figure 3.2, originally published in M. J. Esman, The Landless and Near-Landless in Developing Countries.

UNESCO for extracts from the UNESCO Statistical Yearbooks, 1984, 1986, 1987 and 1988, Trends and Projections of Enrolment by Level of Education and by Age: 1960–2000 (as assessed in 1982), and for Table 8.1, originally published in The Experimental World Literacy Programmes: a Critical Assessment.

United Nations for material from World Population Trends and Policies: 1981 Monitoring Report, vol. I Population Trends; World Population Trends and Policies, Population and Development Interrelations and Population Policies: 1983 Monitoring Reports, vol. I Population Trends (1984); World Population Prospects: Estimates and Projections as Assessed in 1984

(1986); and Figures 10.1 and 12.1 from the United Nations Chronicle.

United Nations World Population Fund and the New Internationalist Magazine for Figures 3.1, 3.3 and 12.2, originally published in the World Population Report, 1988.

World Bank for Figures 1.1, 1.2, 6.1 and 7.1, originally published in the World Development Report, 1988, and for statistical material from that and earlier World Development Reports, copyright 1988 by the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development/The World Bank, reprinted by permission of Oxford University Press.

World Health Organisation for Tables 5.3, 6.1 and 6.2, originally published in the Sixth Report on the World Health Situation 1980, and Evaluation of the Strategy for Health for All: The Seventh Report on the World Health Situation, 1987. An update note was based on the World Health Statistics Annual, 1983.

Penguin Books Ltd for Table 7.5, originally published in Blaug, Layard and Woodhally (1969) The Causes and Consequences of Graduate Unemployment in India.

Every effort has been made to trace all the copyright-holders, but if any have been inadvertently overlooked the publishers will be pleased to make the necessary arrangement at the first opportunity.

Finally may I express my gratitude to the academics, planners and social welfare professionals in the various countries which I have been privileged to visit and work in over the last twenty years; and also to the ordinary people of those countries, the real victims of underdevelopment, who gave me the motivation and the first-hand knowledge I needed to write this book.

HOWARD JONES