Acknowledgements

I am grateful to the various people who have read all or part of this book and have saved me from many errors of judgement and fact; and also to the people who have provided personal support.

The publishers and the author wish to thank the following for permission to reproduce copyright material:

Colin Whittington and Ray Holland (1985) 'A Framework for Theory in Social Work', Issues in Social Work Education, 5 (1), published by the Association for Teachers in Social Work Education, and David Howe (1987) An Introduction to Social Work Theory, published by Wildwood House, for Figure 2.1; Peter Leonard (1975) 'Explanation and Education in Social Work', British Journal of Social Work, 5 (3) published by the British Association of Social Workers, for Table 2.1.

Every effort has been made to trace all the copyright-holders, but if any have been inadvertently overlooked the publishers will be pleased to make the necessary arrangement at the first opportunity.

Clearly, any writer of a review of social work theory relies on the ideas of other writers, and I commend any reader to progress from this introduction to the comprehensive accounts to be found in the books and articles referred to. I have found them stimulating and full of ideas for practice and understanding. I am sure you will do so, too.
