The 1970s and 1980s have seen an explosion of publishing by, about and for women. This list is designed to make a particular contribution to this process by commissioning and publishing books which consolidate and advance feminist research and debate in key areas in a form suitable for students, academics and researchers but also accessible to a broader general readership.

As far as possible books adopt an international perspective incorporating comparative material from a range of countries where this is illuminating. Above all they are interdisciplinary, aiming to put women's studies and feminist discussion firmly on the agenda in subject-areas as disparate as law, physical education, art and social policy.

Acknowledgements

The ideas that form the heart of the book emerged from a research project on women married to naval servicemen. Here I would like to thank Colin May and David Dunkerley for facilitating the research, Devon County Council for funding it and the many women who participated in it. In the development of the book I am particularly grateful to Janet Finch and Jo Campling. Throughout the entire project I am especially grateful to Lyn Bryant for her unfailing support and encouragement.
