The world of sub-central government and administration – including local authorities, quasi-governmental bodies and the agencies of public–private partnerships – has seen massive changes in recent years and is at the heart of the current restructuring of government in the United Kingdom and other Western democracies.

The intention of the Government Beyond the Centre series is to bring the study of this often-neglected world into the mainstream of social science research, applying the spotlight of critical analysis to what has traditionally been the preserve of institutional public administration approaches.

Its focus is on the agenda of change currently being faced by sub-central government, the economic, political and ideological forces that underlie it, and the structures of power and influence that are emerging. Its objective is to provide up-to-date and informative accounts of the new forms of government, management and administration that are emerging.

The series will be of interest to students and practitioners of politics, public and social administration, and all those interested in the reshaping of the governmental institutions which have a daily and major impact on our lives.

GOVERNMENT BEYOND THE CENTRE

SERIES EDITOR: GERRY STOKER

Published

Wendy Ball and John Solomos (eds)

Race and Local Politics

Richard Batley and Gerry Stoker (eds)

Local Government in Europe

Clive Gray

Government Beyond the Centre

John Gyford

Citizens, Consumers and Councils

Yvonne Rydin

The British Planning System

John Stewart and Gerry Stoker (eds)

The Future of Local Government

David Wilson and Chris Game (with Steve Leach and Gerry Stoker)

Local Government in the United Kingdom

Forthcoming

Richard Kerley

Managing in Local Government

Steve Leach, John Stewart and Kieron Walsh

The Changing Organisation and Management of Local Government

Series Standing Order

If you would like to receive future titles in this series as they are published, you can make use of our standing order facility. To place a standing order please contact your bookseller or, in case of difficulty, write to us at the address below with your name and address and the name of the series. Please state with which title you wish to begin your standing order. (If you live outside the UK we may not have the rights for your area, in which case we will forward your order to the publisher concerned.)

Standing Order Service, Macmillan Distribution Ltd,
Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire, RG21 2XS, England

Government Beyond the Centre

Sub-National Politics in Britain

Clive Gray

M
MACMILLAN

© Clive Gray 1994

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No paragraph of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, 90 Tottenham Court Road, London W1P 9HE.

Any person who does any unauthorised act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

First published 1994 by
THE MACMILLAN PRESS LTD
Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 2XS and London
Companies and representatives
throughout the world

ISBN 978-0-333-55558-3 ISBN 978-1-349-23280-2 (eBook)
DOI 10.1007/978-1-349-23280-2

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

Copy-edited and typeset by Povey-Edmondson
Okehampton and Rochdale, England

To Chrissie and Caitlin

Contents

List of Tables	x
Acknowledgements	xii
Introduction	1
First words	1
Sub-national government in Britain	2
Government and administration beyond the centre	3
The importance of sub-national government	5
British sub-national government in comparative perspective	8
Conclusion	10
1 The Local Governments of Britain	12
Introduction	12
The territorial dimension	12
The functional dimension	14
The organisational dimension	16
Variations on a theme	34
Conclusion	36
2 Themes and Issues in Sub-National Government	38
Introduction	38
Life beyond the centre	38
Themes and issues in sub-national government	41
Politics beyond the centre	45
Sub-national government in context	49
Conclusion	50
3 The Changing System and the Conservative ‘Revolution’	51
Introduction	51
The growth of the system	52

'Thatcherism' and sub-national government	55
The Conservative approach to sub-national government	57
The control of sub-national government	59
Accountability and sub-national government	64
Participation in sub-national government	67
Finance and sub-national government	69
Management and sub-national government	73
The politics of sub-national government	76
Conclusion	77
4 Sub-National Government: The Concerns of the Centre	79
Introduction	79
Factors influencing the centre	79
Structural factors	80
Procedural factors	86
The goals of the centre	91
Conclusion	93
5 Policy-Making in Sub-National Government	94
Introduction	94
Models of the policy-making process	94
Pluralism	96
Neo-pluralism	98
Elitism	104
Neo-elitism	105
Corporatism	110
The changing system	114
Conclusion: assessing the models	116
6 Policy Networks and Sub-National Government	120
Introduction	120
Inter-governmental relations and policy networks	121
The changing system	126
The politics of policy networks	130
Conclusion	132
7 Re-Making Policy Networks: Three Case-Studies	134
Introduction	134
Support for the arts	135

Contents	ix
Care in the community	140
Urban re-development and inner cities	146
Conclusion	152
8 Theoretical Perspectives	155
Introduction	155
Pluralism and sub-national government	156
Marxism and sub-national government	162
The new right and sub-national government	168
Weberian theory and sub-national government	173
Conclusion	179
9 Conclusion: The Future of Government Beyond the Centre	182
Introduction	182
The shape of things to come?	183
Sub-national government in Britain and Europe	187
The future of government beyond the centre	191
A Guide to Further Reading	196
References	198
Index	212

List of Tables

I.1	Public expenditure 1989/90 in sub-national government	6
I.2	Public sector employment 1989/90	7
1.1	The local government system	17
1.2	The National Health Service system	18
1.3	The outposts of the centre system	19
1.4	The quango system	23
1.5	Organisational differences in sub-national government	33
5.1	Models of the policy-making process	95
5.2	Criteria for assessing models of policy-making	117
6.1	Characteristics of policy networks	122

Acknowledgements

In writing this book I have incurred a large number of debts to colleagues and friends. A short mention here of what I owe to various people cannot really convey my appreciation for their time, help, comments and willingness to put up with me when in my mad author role. Bearing this in mind, and at the risk of sounding like an Oscar-winner's acceptance speech, I would like to thank those who helped me in the writing of this book for intellectual assistance, ranging from reading draft chapters to discussing abstruse theories to pointing me in the direction of various references; those who provided more general support in terms of the book from buying me cups of coffee to asking me continually how it was going (and thereby forcing me to carry on); and, finally, those who provided me with evidence that there is life beyond book-writing.

In the first category come Gerry Stoker of Strathclyde University and my publisher Steven Kennedy for bearing with me when I fell behind dead-lines and offering their comments throughout the writing process; colleagues at De Montfort University, particularly David Wilson, Pat Mounfield, Rob Baggott and Victoria McGregor (who kindly volunteered to read some of this book on her first day in the Department as a research student); colleagues at other academic institutions, particularly John Barlow at Central Lancashire University for helping to firm up the shape of the book at a very early stage, Oliver Bennett from Warwick University, Vivien Lowndes and Chris Game at INLOGOV, Rod Rhodes at York University, and Peter Williamson, now at Grampian Regional Health Authority.

In the second category are Lyn Robins, Eric Norris, Tony Stott Martin Denscombe, Merrill Clarke and Alastair Jones, all from De Montfort University, and all probably floating on seas of coffee. Bob Haigh and Dave Morris of Sheffield Hallam University also deserve thanks, stretching back to my student days, for their continuing encouragement and support, as well as for their guide to conferences and outrageous stories.

It is usual to thank whoever had the ill luck to have to type and re-type manuscripts. As I did it all I suppose I could just thank myself; however, Caroline Hime and Caroline Healy in the Departmental Office have provided a lot of background support and a never-ending supply of paper: thank you, and I promise not to dictate too many letters in the future! The staff at the Scraftoft library were both efficient and friendly in helping me to get hold of some of the more esoteric references that I was after: thanks go to Elizabeth O'Neill, Olwyn Reynard and Sally Luxton in particular.

In the third category are Jeff Churchill, Dave Lumb and Simon Lynch from the Skulking Loafers quiz team and Leicester City football matches: this year we both win the title! Finally, Chrissie and Caitlin, without whom this would have been finished a lot quicker than it has been, and without whom I would not have had to write it in the first place. Seriously, the debt of gratitude that I owe to Chrissie and Caitlin is immense: I love them both and as a small token of this I dedicate the book to them.

Finally, it is the usual practice for authors to accept responsibility for any faults in their work and failing anyone else doing this for me I bow to the inevitable. If anybody wishes to have a go at me for the contents of this book, could they do it over a pint some time?

Scraftoft, Leicester

CLIVE GRAY