Social work is at an important stage in its development. All professions must be responsive to changing social and economic conditions if they are to meet the needs of those they serve. This series focuses on sound practice and the specific contribution which social workers can make to the well-being of our society.

The British Association of Social Workers has always been conscious of its role in setting guidelines for practice and in seeking to raise professional standards. The conception of the Practical Social Work series arose from a survey of BASW members to discover where they, the practitioners in social work, felt there was the most need for new literature. The response was overwhelming and enthusiastic, and the result is carefully planned, coherent series of books. The emphasis is firmly on practice set in a theoretical framework. The books will inform, stimulate and promote discussion, thus adding to the further development of skills and high professional standards. All the authors are practitioners and teachers of social work representing a wide variety of experience.

Acknowledgements

Many people have helped us to write this book. Individually and collectively, we want to thank the Chief Officer, staff and clients of the Mid-Glamorgan Probation Service for their collaboration in and contribution to the STOP study, and Jacqueline Lucas, who worked as a research assistant on the survey of staff views; the Director and staff of the Institute of Criminology in Cambridge for their help and hospitality during Peter Raynor's Visiting Fellowship, which allowed him to take part in the research on the quality of social inquiry and pre-sentence reports; Loraine Gelsthorpe and Andrea Tisi, the co-researchers on these studies; the Home Office Research and Planning Unit for financial support of the work on social inquiry and pre-sentence reports, and of the staff survey element of the STOP evaluation; National Children's Home for supporting the work on social inquiry reports in Scotland; and Bruce Seymour, Rob Thomas, Sue Thomas, Courtney Warner and other colleagues and students, past and present, whose contribution to the development of our ideas has been incalculable. We owe special debts to Anna Javed and Jacky Smith, of the Lancashire and South Yorkshire Probation Services, for reading parts of the book and for their stimulating comments; to Jen Fletcher for turning our varied typescripts into something presentable; and to our spouses and children, for putting up with us, and more than that. The failings of the book are of course solely our responsibility.
