Children and Social Policy

Also by Paul Daniel

Social Work and Local Politics (with J. Wheeler)

Children and Social Policy

Paul Daniel and John Ivatts

palgrave

© Paul Daniel and John Ivatts 1998

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No paragraph of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, 90 Tottenham Court Road, London W1T 4LP.

Any person who does any unauthorised act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

The authors have asserted their rights to be identified as the authors of this work in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

Published by

PALGRAVE

Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS and

175 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10010

Companies and representatives throughout the world

PALGRAVE is the new global academic imprint of

St. Martin's Press LLC Scholarly and Reference Division and Palgrave Publishers Ltd (formerly Macmillan Press Ltd).

ISBN 978-0-333-65208-4 ISBN 978-1-349-26277-9 (eBook)

DOI 10.1007/978-1-349-26277-9

This book is printed on paper suitable for recycling and made from fully managed and sustained forest sources.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

10 9 8 7 6 5 4
07 06 05 04 03 02 01

Copy-edited and typeset by Povey–Edmondson
Tavistock and Rochdale

To our children and grandchildren

Andrew, Eleanor, Mark, Nicole, Oliver, Rachel and Simone

Contents

List of Tables and Figures	xiii
Acknowledgements	xiv
Introduction	1
1 Social Policy and Childhood: An Overview	4
Introduction	4
Children come first?	5
The family: a dominant theme in UK social policy	6
The state–family relationship	8
Child as threat	11
Child as victim	13
Child as investment	13
The liberal dilemma	15
The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child	16
Conclusion	21
2 Children in Britain Today	22
Introduction – population studies	22
Determinants of the size of the child population	23
Long-term fertility trends in the United Kingdom	27
The child population	29
The geographical distribution of the child population	31
The children of ethnic minority groups	32
Children growing up in lone-parent families	36
‘Reconstituted’ families	39
Other child minorities	40
The changing experience of childhood since 1945	44
Conclusion	46
3 Children and Poverty	50
Introduction	50
The end of the line for poverty?	51
Poverty as social exclusion	52

Measuring the extent of child poverty	56
Child poverty since 1945	57
The causes of child poverty	59
Family Allowance/Child Benefit	62
A minimum wage	65
Benefits for families out of work	67
4 Child Health and Health Care Policy	75
Introduction	75
Health care policy and children	76
The National Health Service	78
'Working for Patients' and the 1991 NHS reorganisation	80
Child health care within the reorganised NHS	82
Inequalities in health among children	87
Contemporary health risks to children	93
Conclusion	107
5 Housing Policy and Children	110
Introduction	110
Housing policy and progress 1945-79	111
Post-war housing policy and children	113
Housing policy since 1979	120
The consequences for children of post-1979 housing policies	121
Homelessness	132
The effects of homelessness on children	138
Conclusion	143
6 Early Childhood Education and Care	145
Introduction	145
The low status of early childhood	146
The education/care division	148
Early years day care and adult interests	148
'Investing' in young children	149
The pattern of provision: choice or lottery?	151
The mixed economy of provision	154
The quality of provision	159
Nursery vouchers	162
Day care for school-age children	164
Towards child-friendly employment policies	165
Conclusion	166

7	Primary Education	167
	Introduction	167
	The establishment of primary education	169
	The post-1944 challenge	171
	Progress and problems in primary education from the 1940s to the 1970s	172
	Educational change 1979–96	176
	The primary school curriculum	179
	Standards and classroom methods in primary education	181
	A wider choice for parents?	184
	Disadvantaged children	187
	Resources for primary education	189
	Independent schools	192
	Conclusion	194
8	Child Welfare and Protection	196
	Introduction	196
	The ‘liberal compromise’	197
	An age of optimism, 1945–70	201
	The 1970s: the permanency philosophy	203
	The contemporary dominance of child protection	204
	The Children Act 1989	205
	Children in care/accommodation	208
	Black children and the care system	209
	The growth of fostering	210
	Residential care	211
	The experience of children in care/accommodation	213
	Adoption	215
	Conclusion	217
9	The Century of the Child?	219
	Introduction	219
	Children of the ‘welfare state’, 1945–79	221
	From a ‘universalist’ to an ‘affordable’ welfare state	222
	Children in a changing welfare state	224
	Towards greater prominence for children in social policy	228
	Institutional change for the empowerment of children?	230
	Conclusion	234
	Bibliography	236
	Index	253

List of Tables and Figures

Tables

2.1	Number of children, United Kingdom, by age and gender	30
2.2	Population, Great Britain, by ethnic group and age, spring 1995	34
6.1	Places in early years' education and care facilities in the United Kingdom, 1951–1992/93	156

Figures

2.1	United Kingdom live births, 1944–94 and estimated population, mid-1994	28
2.2	Total period fertility rate (TPFR) in the United Kingdom, 1944–94	28

Acknowledgements

We are greatly indebted to the many Social Policy and Early Childhood Diploma students whose desire for understanding and acute concern for children's welfare have provided a rich source of ideas, and indeed the original inspiration for this book. To our colleagues in the Sociology and Social Policy Department at the Roehampton Institute we also owe a great deal. Their encouragement and fecund comments upon some of the original material contributed substantially to the development of the content of this text. Thus our particular thanks to Martin Albrow, John Baker, David Denney, Graham Fennell, Stephen Groarke, Robert Leaper and Lorraine Radford. To Jane Lambert, Peter Jackson, Arthur Ivatts, Simone Ivatts and Edith Le Riche we are also particularly grateful for their expert advice on specific subject matter. The completion of a book of this kind depends upon the works of innumerable writers and researchers. We gratefully acknowledge our debt to all those who have contributed to the store of public knowledge upon which we have been able to draw so copiously. The task of writing this text has also been greatly facilitated by the unfailing help and courteous efficiency of the staff of the Roehampton Institute libraries and of the Horsham branch of the West Sussex public library service; our appreciation in this connection to Pat Biggs, James Chislett, Julie Harrison and Maria Hisco, and to Andrea Peace and her colleagues at Southlands College Library. Finally, and above all, we owe an immeasurable debt of gratitude to Joanna Ball and Rose-Marie Ivatts who have not only shared the stresses of authorship with great patience, but have provided invaluable support and encouragement throughout.

PAUL DANIEL
JOHN IVATTS

The authors and publishers gratefully acknowledge the permission given by the Controller of HMSO and The Office for National Statistics to reproduce the material used in the figures and tables.