Many thanks are in order, as many people helped us transform some intriguing ideas about stormwater and landscape design into this book. First we'd like to thank J. William Thompson, who as editor of Landscape Architecture magazine in 2005 encouraged our foray into Artful Rainwater Design (ARD), provided great information on projects, and published some of our early articles; and Elen Deming, then editor of Landscape Journal, who saw worthy scholarship and professional information in an article she helped us publish in LJ in 2008. Thanks also to our then-graduate student and fellow ARD fanatic, Seth Wilberding, for undertaking a thesis that provided us lots of good stuff. Special thanks also go to Tom Liptan, Portland pioneer and champion of green infrastructure whose “why not” attitude has led to the creation of many seminal ARDs.

We could not have filled this book with thought-provoking projects and ideas without the contribution of many talented designers nationwide. Steve Benz of OLIN; Warren Byrd of Nelson Byrd Woltz; Steve Koch of Koch Landscape Architecture; environmental artist Stacy Levy; Tom Liptan, retired environmental specialist for Portland, Oregon's Bureau of Environmental Services; Carol Mayer Reed of Mayer/Reed; Kevin Perry of Urban Rain | Design; Michael Vergason of Michael Vergason Landscape Architects, Ltd.; and Sue Weiler of OLIN deserve special thanks for sharing their ideas in a 2013 ARD symposium at Penn State. To all the designers who provided us case study information, we feel enormous gratitude: José Alminaña and Tom Amoroso of Andropogon Associates, Ltd.; Leo Alvarez of Perkins + Will; Mara Lee Baird of ML Baird & Co.; Kevin Burke of Atlanta BeltLine Inc.; Maxine Coleman of Perkins + Will; Bruce Dees of Bruce Dees and Associates; Herbert Dreiseitl of Atelier Dreiseitl; David Elliott of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society; Mike Faha of Greenworks; Peggy Gaynor of Gaynor, Inc.; Ian Holzworth of Walker Macy; environmental artist Lorna Jordan; Jonathan Martin of RDG Planning & Design; Jeffrey Miller of Miller Company Landscape Architects;

Joan Nassauer of the University of Michigan; Alex Perove of Greenworks; Nancy Rottle of the University of Washington; Lee Skabelund of Kansas State University; environmental artist Buster Simpson; Peg Staeheli of SvR Design Company; Christie Ten Eyck of Ten Eyck Landscape Architects Inc.; Mark Tilbe of Murase Associates; Nick Wilson of Atlas Landscape Architecture; Sara Wilson of Siteworks; and David Yocca of Design Conservation Forum. Of all of the above, a special shout-out goes to Warren Byrd, longtime friend and ARD advocate, who always encourages us to spread the word further.

For support in the form of time and funding, we thank Ron Henderson, head of Penn State's Department of Landscape Architecture; Nat Belcher, director of the Stuckeman School of Architecture and Landscape Architecture; and Barbara Korner, dean of Penn State's College of Arts and Architecture.

This book wouldn't look nearly as good as it does without the artistic assistance of Chris Maurer, creator of our diagrams, and Lacey Goldberg, designer of our icons.

Finally, we owe deep thanks to Courtney Lix, our editor with Island Press, whose helpful collaboration made producing this book a pleasure.
