A photograph of a modern water fountain. The fountain is constructed from large, angular, rusted metal blocks of varying sizes and orientations. Water is cascading over the blocks, creating a dynamic scene with splashing and bubbles. The background is a dark, paved surface with a white checkered pattern. The overall aesthetic is industrial and sculptural.

Jonathan Barnett and Larry Beasley

Ecodesign
for Cities and Suburbs

Ecodesign for Cities and Suburbs

Ecodesign for Cities and Suburbs

Jonathan Barnett and Larry Beasley

Copyright © 2015 Jonathan Barnett and Larry Beasley

All rights reserved under International and Pan-American Copyright Conventions. No part of this book may be reproduced in any form or by any means without permission in writing from the publisher: Island Press, 2000 M Street, NW, Suite 650, Washington, DC 20036

Island Press is a trademark of Island Press/Center for Resource Economics.

Library of Congress Control Number: 2014954410

Printed on recycled, acid-free paper

Manufactured in the United States of America

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Keywords: alternative energy sources, balanced transportation, bicycle and pedestrian access, bicycle facilities, building massing and orientation, Bus Rapid Transit, climate change, edges, high speed rail, mixed-use development, multifamily site design, open-space and landscape design, parking, pedestrian network, solar access, street design, street network, suburban commercial development, suburban retrofits, sustainability, transportation, urban design, urban growth, urban parks, urban planning, urban policy, walkable communities, zoning

To Nory

—Jonathan Barnett

To my partner, Sandy, first and foremost

To my mentor, Ray

To my friend, Bob

and

In memory of Miss Marion Campbell

—Larry Beasley

Contents

Chapter 1.	Ecodesign: Changing the Urban Growth Model	1
Chapter 2.	Adapting to Climate Change and Limiting Global Warming	21
Chapter 3.	Balancing Cars and Other Transportation	63
Chapter 4.	Making Cities More Livable and Environmentally Compatible	93
Chapter 5.	Designing and Managing the Public Realm	149
Chapter 6.	Implementing Ecodesign	209
Art Credits		243
Notes		249
Index		255