

Part IV

Research Paradigms, Methodology, and Research Design

This part provides a general methodological overview of the study. However, specific protocols for each research component are included at the beginning of each chapter. Before describing the various methods, what follows introduces the paradigms underpinning this study.