

Part III
Results, Intervention, and Contributions

Chapter 7 provides answers to the three refined research questions of the first part of the main research question (How does systems thinking evolve in practice?). Additionally, these answers include the main contributions to research of this research project.

Chapter 8 bases on these answers to the first part of the main research question. In this chapter, the second part of the main research question is answered (How can this evolution be improved?). It includes the main contribution to industry of this research project.

Chapter 9 concludes this final part of the book in summarising the main results and contributions of this research project. Furthermore, it includes an outlook for future research.
