Acknowledgments

Many people in addition to authors and editors help to create a book. We thank the following individuals for their generosity in reviewing the chapters in this book: W. Andrew Collins, Jodi Dworkin, Christopher Erbes, Eric Flake, Marion Forgatch, Sarah Friedman, Robin Gurwitch, Ernie Jouriles, Greg Leskin, Shelley MacDermid, Joseph McQuade, Melissa Polusny, and Michelle Sherman. Our thanks to Diane Timba and Alyssa Garr, for their editorial support and careful attention to detail. Finally, we express our gratitude to our own families—husbands and children—for allowing us to take time away from them in the service of furthering knowledge of military families.

This book is dedicated to two pioneering family researchers: Marion Forgatch and Gerald Patterson. Marion’s development, rigorous testing, and widespread implementation of parent training has improved the lives of many thousands of families across the globe. Jerry, a World War II veteran awarded the Bronze Star and Purple Heart for his courage and bravery, has shown us through a lifetime of research how effective parenting is crucial to children’s well-being.
