From 1940s zoot-suiters and hepcats through 1950s rock 'n' rollers, beatniks and Teddy boys; 1960s surfers, rude boys, mods, hippies and bikers; 1970s skinheads, soul boys, rastas, glam rockers, funksters and punks; on to the heavy metal, hip-hop, casual, goth, rave and clubber styles of the 1980s, 1990s, noughties and beyond, distinctive blends of fashion and music have become a defining feature of the cultural landscape. The Subcultures Network series is international in scope and designed to explore the social and political implications of subcultural forms. Youth and subcultures will be located in their historical, socio-economic and cultural context; the motivations and meanings applied to the aesthetics, actions and manifestations of youth and subculture will be assessed. The objective is to facilitate a genuinely cross-disciplinary and transnational outlet for a burgeoning area of academic study.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The process of writing a book is long and arduous but ultimately a greatly rewarding experience. This project was conceived back in 2008, and I have benefitted greatly over the last eight years from insightful supervision by Hilary Pilkington. Without Hilary's intellectual guidance, her critical eye, her unwavering support and her friendship this project would not have been possible. Working alongside her has been an honour and an experience to be cherished, and the lessons I learned from her will be drawn on throughout the rest of my academic life. Anton Popov provided valuable advice, good humour and assistance, reading and commenting on many drafts in the latter stages of this project, for which I am eternally grateful.

My thanks go to the AHRC for funding the doctoral studentship that enabled this research, to the excellent editorial staff at Palgrave Macmillan for guidance throughout the publishing process, to my anonymous peer reviewer for their comments and suggestions, and to everyone who has read draft chapters at all stages of this project.

I have benefited from stimulating conversations with so many colleagues over the years, in my department as well as at conferences. I can't begin to name all individuals who have inspired me academically and apologise to any that I inevitably leave out from this list. Particular thanks go to Matt Worley and Cath Lambert for their recommendations. Thanks also to the rest of the 'Punk Project'; Ivan Gololobov, Ivana Mijić, Yngvar Steinholt, Ben Perasović and Aimar Ventsel, the Subcultures Network, and the Punk Scholars Network. Mick Carpenter, Alice Mah, Maria Do Mar Pereira, Keith Popple, Martin Price, Mae Shaw and Deborah Lynn Steinberg have provided further support over the years. Helen Anderson, Rowenna Baldwin, Mark Carrigan, Joanna Cuttell, Louise Ellis, Izzy Gutteridge, Michelle Kempson, Milena Kremakova, Harriet Palfreyman, Joelin Quigley-Berg all helped enormously and made the writing experience far more fun.

In doing this research I was inspired to finally pick up a guitar and make some punk noise myself. Cookie, Jim Donaghey, Marcus Green, Sham Jaffer, Freja Sohn Frøkjær-Jensen, Dan Kerr, Jo Oldham and Snowy Snowdon all indulged me in fulfilling this dream—it has been an honour to share stages with them all. Jenny Holden, Jess Kitchen, Ruth MacDonald, Rowena Scarbrough and Lara Staal all offered their continued and valued friendship despite my habit of disappearing into my books for months at a time. My family, Margaret, Joost and Ishbel Lohman have all been endlessly patient and supportive of me. My partner, Ruth has been a true inspiration to me, academically, personally, and creatively, and has encouraged me at every turn.

Finally, a huge thank you to all those who participated in this research, for sharing your stories and experiences with me, and for inspiring this book, I hope that you feel it does justice to your lives.
