

Sustainability in Fashion

Claudia E. Henninger • Panayiota J. Alevizou • Helen Goworek •
Daniella Ryding
Editors

Sustainability in Fashion

A Cradle to Upcycle Approach

palgrave
macmillan

Editors

Claudia E. Henninger
University of Manchester
Manchester, United Kingdom

Helen Goworek
University of Leicester
Leicester, United Kingdom

Panayiota J. Alevizou
Management School
University of Sheffield
Sheffield, United Kingdom

Daniella Ryding
University of Manchester
Manchester, United Kingdom

ISBN 978-3-319-51252-5
DOI 10.1007/978-3-319-51253-2

ISBN 978-3-319-51253-2 (eBook)

Library of Congress Control Number: 2017935408

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s) 2017

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Printed on acid-free paper

This Palgrave Macmillan imprint is published by Springer Nature
The registered company is Springer International Publishing AG
The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

Acknowledgements

Support is one of the most important things that you cannot buy; thus, we would like to thank our family and friends for their continuous support and believe in our work. A special thanks to Panayiota, Helen, and Daniella for their dedication towards this book, their enthusiasm, and their hard work.

We would also like to thank each and every one of our amazing contributors, without whom this book would not have been possible. Thank you for being part of our book, for all your hard work, and your timely submissions. We believe that every chapter has added value to our book, making it a unique piece by providing a multifaceted lens to sustainability in fashion. Thank you! Danke! Ευχαρίστώς!

Contents

1	Introduction to Sustainability in Fashion	1
	Claudia E. Henninger, Daniella Ryding, Panayiota J. Alevizou and Helen Goworek
2	The Epiphanic Sustainable Fast Fashion Epoch	11
	Charlotte Rutter, Kate Armstrong and Marta Blazquez Cano
3	Sustainability and the Fashion Industry: Conceptualizing Nature and Traceability	31
	Annamma Joy and Camilo Peña
4	The Influence of Eco-Labeling on Ethical Consumption of Organic Cotton	55
	Joy Bucklow, Patsy Perry and Elaine Ritch
5	An Exploration of Consumers' Perceptions Towards Sustainable Fashion – A Qualitative Study in the UK	81
	Zhen Lai, Claudia E. Henninger and Panayiota J. Alevizou
6	Ethical Consumption Patterns and the Link to Purchasing Sustainable Fashion	103
	Claudia E. Henninger and Pallavi Singh

7	Determining Effective Sustainable Fashion Communication Strategies	127
	Sara Li-Chou Han, Claudia E. Henninger, Phoebe Apeagyei and David Tyler
8	Fashion in a Circular Economy	151
	Kirsi Niinimäki
9	Investigating the Relationship Between Consumer Attitudes and Sustainable Fashion Product Development	171
	Angharad McLaren and Helen Goworek
10	Social Sustainability in Apparel Supply Chains: Organizational Practices for Managing Sub-Contracted Homework	193
	Archana and Marsha A. Dickson
11	User Satisfaction and Dissatisfaction in the App Sharing Economy	217
	Sarah Netter
12	A Review of Secondhand Luxury and Vintage Clothing	245
	Daniella Ryding, Menglu Wang, Carly Fox and Yanan Xu
	Index	267

Notes on Contributors

Dr Phoebe Apeageyi is a Senior Lecturer in Fashion Technology and Anthropometrics at Manchester Metropolitan University. Her experiences and research interests lie in body scanning technology, anthropometrics, body image, sizing, plus consumer perceptions and attitudes towards fashion, innovation, and sustainability.

Dr Marsha A. Dickson is Irma Ayers Professor of Human Services in the Department of Fashion and Apparel Studies, and co-director of the Sustainable Apparel Initiative at the University of Delaware. Dr Dickson is internationally recognized for her research and teaching on social responsibility in the apparel industry. She is lead author of the book Social Responsibility in the Global Apparel Industry, has co-authored two books on fair trade, and has published on consumer and business practices in social responsibility in peer-reviewed journals such as Business & Society, Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of Corporate Citizenship, and the Clothing and Textiles Research Journal. She has conducted research on social responsibility in Bangladesh, Cambodia, China, Guatemala, Hong Kong, India, Thailand, Vietnam, and in the UK and Europe. For 14 years Dickson served an executive member of the board of directors of the Fair Labor Association (FLA), a non-governmental organization originally formed by President Clinton to improve working conditions in factories around the world. She is currently on the board of directors of the Fair Factories Clearinghouse. Dr Dickson has received several awards for her academic and industry contributions in social responsibility, including the All Star Award from Apparel Magazine and the International Textile and Apparel Association (ITAA) in 2009, ITAA Distinguished Scholar in 2011, and ITAA Fellow in 2016.

Dr Kirsi Niinimäki is an Associate Professor in Fashion research in Aalto University. Her research focuses on holistic understanding of sustainable fashion and textile fields and connections between design, manufacturing, business models and consumption. In Aalto University Niinimäki runs the Fashion/Textile Futures research group. The research group is involved in several significant research projects, which integrate closed loop, bioeconomy and circular economy approaches in fashion and textile systems. Her work is widely published in top scientific journals.

Sarah Netter is the Centre Manager at the Centre for Corporate Social Responsibility (cbsCSR) at the Copenhagen Business School (CBS) in Denmark. Prior to her appointment, Sarah has been a PhD fellow and a Post-Doctoral fellow at the Department of Intercultural Communication and Management at CBS. Her research focusses on the sharing economy, sustainable consumer behaviour, business model innovation, and the fashion industry. As part of her research, Sarah has conducted extensive fieldwork on the sharing economy in Europe and the USA. In her research, Sarah aims to explore this new phenomenon and to provide a more nuanced understanding of the opportunities and tensions that characterize the sharing economy. Sarah is affiliated with the MISTRA Future Fashion initiative. MISTRA Future Fashion is a large-scale, cross-disciplinary research initiative, which aims at promoting systemic changes towards sustainability in the fashion industry.

Dr Helen Goworek is MSc Marketing Programme Leader at University of Leicester, UK, and Chair of the British Academy of Management's Sustainable and Responsible Business conference track. She is the author of three books about the fashion business and retailing, and has also written book chapters and articles on retail buying, product development, and sustainability. She is a member of the organising committees for the Management and Environmental Sustainability conference and the International Colloquium on Design, Branding and Marketing (ICDBM).

Dr Daniella Ryding is a Lecturer in Fashion Marketing at the University of Manchester in the UK. An active researcher with over with over 40 published articles and several text book contributions, her main research interests focus on consumer behaviour within an international fashion retailing context. The author has more recently been engaged with the psychological cognitive and behavioural mechanisms impacting on consumer decision-making, contributing to better understandings of memory and the ramifications for business marketing campaigns. Daniella also takes a proactive interest in sustainability and the circular economy, examining further the ecological and ethical principles which drive business strategy.

Dr Panayiota J. Alevizou is a Lecturer in Marketing at University of Sheffield, UK, where she teaches Marketing Theory and Practice, and Retail and Services Marketing. She is the Programme Director of International Business and Management at the University of Sheffield Management School and a member of the Centre for Research in Marketing and Society (CReiMS). She is particularly interested in exploring consumer behaviour, company communication, and labelling strategies by means of qualitative methods. Panayiota is a fellow of the Higher Education Academy and worked as a marketing consultant in Greece.

Dr Claudia E. Henninger is a Lecturer in Fashion Marketing Management at the School of Materials, the University of Manchester. She was awarded her PhD entitled 'Corporate Identity in the Contexts of the UK's Green Slow-Fashion Industry and Micro-Organisations' from the University of Sheffield in 2015. Claudia's research centres on corporate marketing, sustainability, and green consumer typologies in the context of the fashion industry. She has published in leading journals, contributed to edited books, and presented her work at various national and international conferences. Claudia is the Deputy Chair of the Academy of Marketing SIG Sustainability.

Dr. Annamma Joy is a professor of Marketing, Faculty of Management at the University of British Columbia, Okanagan campus. Her research interests are primarily in the area of consumer behaviour and branding with a special focus on luxury brands, fashion brand experiences, consumer behaviour in the People's Republic of China (PRC), sustainability in the fashion and wine industries, and aesthetic consumption. She has published several articles in consumer behaviour and marketing journals such as the Journal of Consumer Research, Journal of Consumer Psychology, International Journal of Research in Marketing, Journal of Cross-cultural Psychology, and Journal of Economic Psychology, Consumption, Markets and Culture. Dr. Joy has won several awards for her articles published in journals in addition to videos she helped produce.

Camilo Peña is a PhD student at the Faculty of Management—University of British Columbia (UBC), Okanagan Campus. His current work and research focuses on topics of sustainable consumer behaviours in the wine industry.

Dr Patsy Perry is a Lecturer in Fashion Marketing in the School of Materials at The University of Manchester. She gained her PhD in Corporate Social Responsibility in fashion supply chains from Heriot-Watt University in 2012, and has published a number of academic journal articles and book chapters on her research. She teaches on several undergraduate and postgraduate courses and supervises PhD students in the areas of sustainability and fashion marketing.

Joy Bucklow gained a first class honours degree in Contemporary Textiles from Lancaster University in 2013, and in 2016 started her third year PhD studies in the School of Materials, at the University of Manchester. Combined with her professional qualification as a Chartered Management Accountant, she plans to use the skills and knowledge gained from her PhD on sustainability, consumerism and labelling, to start a textile design company using sustainable fibres.

Sara Li-Chou Han is a Research Associate at Manchester Metropolitan University. Her background lies in fashion design, styling, and social enterprise, and she is currently researching how circular economy fashion strategies can re-value post-consumer textiles and close ‘values-action gaps’ in supply chains.

Dr David Tyler is a Reader in Fashion Technology at Manchester Metropolitan University. With many years of experience in the garment industry and in Higher Education, he has developed research interests using UK and EU funding. His current projects include new product development, impact protection, apparel sustainability, and wearable technologies. He is involved with Resyntex: an EU-funded initiative to extend the circular economy to fashion products.

Ms Zhen Lai is a marketing consultant for the internet industry. She has received a merit in her MSc International Management and Marketing from the University of Sheffield in 2015. Silver’s Master dissertation focused on sustainability in the fashion industry. Her dissertation was entitled ‘An exploration of consumers’ perspective towards eco-labelling in the UK’s fashion industry’, for which she received a distinction.

Ms Yanan Xu is a Marketing Assistant in the fashion industry. She received a distinction in her Masters Degree in Marketing and Management from Loughborough University in 2014, and her MSc. in International Fashion Retailing, awarded from the University of Manchester in 2016. Yanan Xu’s MSc. thesis focused on sustainable luxury fashion and consumer behaviour. Her dissertation was entitled Extending the Consumer Style Inventory (CSI) Framework to Understand Consumer Decision Making for Second-hand Luxury Clothing Consumption: UK Perspective.

Ms Menglu Wang is a graduate from the University of Manchester. Her MSc. thesis examines sustainable fashion and its applications to consumer behaviour in the fashion industry by extending the Consumer Style Inventory (CSI) Framework to understand shopper motivations for vintage fashion in the UK market.

Archana is a Senior Account Manager at Intertek, where she manages product safety programs for key global accounts. She has worked in design, compliance, and product safety roles in the apparel industry. She has a MS in Fashion Studies from the University of Delaware where she delved into the world of corporate social responsibility. Archana grew up in India surrounded by a plethora of traditional textiles, native crafts, and interaction with artisans and weavers, which she pinpoints as the beginning of her career in the global apparel industry.

Carly Fox has previously studied pattern cutting, fashion and interior design as well as areas of psychology and education. Throughout her career she has gained design, production, sales and manufacturing experience in the UK, Europe, India and China working with both the high-street retail chains and within the luxury fashion market in areas of women's wear, men's wear and accessories. After a stint of being a fashion and lifestyle editor of a London music magazine she was invited to produce fashion shows and events working on projects such as London Fashion Week. Demand was such that she quickly moved into working with a select group of high net worth private clients styling all aspects of their lifestyle.

Angharad McLaren is a Lecturer in Textile Design, Sustainable Clothing Research Coordinator and former Research Fellow in Design for Clothing Longevity, at Nottingham Trent University, UK, with research interests in sustainable fashion and textiles, sustainable consumption, consumer behaviour and clothing longevity.

Dr Pallavi Singh is a Senior Lecturer in Marketing at Sheffield Business School, Sheffield Hallam University, Sheffield, UK. Before commencing her academic career, she was a Civil Servant in India. She obtained her PhD in Ethical Marketing from University of Sheffield Management School, Sheffield, UK; her MBA in Marketing also from University of Sheffield Management School (SUMS) UK; her Masters in Hindi Literature (Silver Medallist) and her Bachelors in Physics from the prestigious University of Allahabad in India. Her research interest includes environmental education in schools, and higher education institutions, sustainable consumption in families, socialization theory, green consumer behaviour, and child influence in family purchase decision-making. Her work has been presented at the Academy of Marketing Conference, World Environmental Education Congress and many more conferences across Asia and Europe. She is a reviewer with number of publications like the Journal of Consumer Behaviour, South Asian Journal of Global Business Research, and Journal of Consumer Ethics. She serves as consultant for social businesses, charity organisations, and not for profit organisations.

Dr Elaine Ritch is a Lecturer in Marketing and Programme Leader for the BA (Hons) International Marketing degree at Glasgow Caledonian University. She was awarded her PhD, entitled Mothers' experience of sustainable fashion consumption: An existential phenomenological exploration within Edinburgh, from Queen Margaret University in 2013. Elaine focuses her research on fashion consumption through a sustainability lens and has published in international journals and edited books, along with regularly presenting her work at international conferences.

Charlotte Rutter is a Senior Lecturer. With over a decade of lecturing in Fashion Management & Marketing (FMM) and as a co-founder of a successful fashion company, Charlotte has a wealth of experience to share through both an academic and professional lens. As Senior Lecturer at The University of Creative Arts (UCA), she has developed innovative and industry-relevant course content making the UCA FMM course one of the best in the country and leading to visiting posts at other universities including the University of the Arts London. Charlotte is passionate about developing research in the areas of FMM, sustainability, and ethics and consumer psychology, and has authored papers for publication and is a regular speaker at academic conferences. She has collaborated with Dr Kate Armstrong to design, write and deliver short courses and chapter content on specialised topic areas and is a Deputy Chair of the Fashion Marketing & Consumption SIG. Charlotte also works with companies in a consulting capacity to provide advisory and sounding board services through to full branding, marketing and business strategies.

Dr Marta Blazquez Cano is a Lecturer in Fashion Marketing at the School of Materials, University of Manchester. Marta holds a BA in Advertising and PR and has developed a career in the advertising and marketing industry for more than 10 years. She was awarded a PhD in Marketing entitled 'Consumer experience in a multichannel retail environment: a cross-country study of the fashion sector. Marta's research interest includes omnichannel retail, experiential retail, channel integration, in-store technology, social media marketing, mobile marketing, consumer behaviour and sustainable fashion. She has published in leading journals, contributed to edited books and presented her work at various national and international conferences. Marta has been visiting researcher in the Oxford Institute of Research Management (OXIRM), University of Oxford, and has been invited lecturer on several occasions in China and Spain. She supervises a number of PhD and MSc students in the areas of fashion marketing and retailing.

Dr Kate Armstrong Current position: Assistant Dean: UG, Regents University London. She is a dynamic leader, innovator, manager and consultant with over 18 years of experience as an academic and branding consultant. PhD: qualitative, phenomenological, interpretive approach to explore consumer value systems and female consumption. Her research interests are diverse, but are centred around four broad research domains, including: (1) consumer psychology; (2) fashion; (3) creative and cultural Industries and (4) education. She has taught and researched in these areas in a number of Universities during her career. She is an experienced doctoral supervisor at both UG and PG level and has successfully supervised students to successful completion of their PhDs. She is regularly invited to present, chair and speak at industry and academic events and conferences. Her work is published in the Journal of Marketing Management, the Journal of Customer Behaviour and the International Journal of Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector Marketing and she is regularly invited to review papers in these and other, related journals. To consolidate her academic, commercial and research aspirations, she is founder and Chair the Fashion Marketing and Consumption SIG for the Academy of Marketing, of which she is the Chair. She is currently involved in several research projects that interrogate the intersection of fashion consumer psychology, consumption and engagement.

List of Figures

Fig. 3.1	Current vs. proposed fashion apparel model	45
Fig. 4.1	Estimated global cotton production 2014 (GMO Compass 2014; Textile Exchange 2016)	60
Fig. 4.2	Product factors and attributes involved in consumer purchase decision for fashion	63
Fig. 6.1	CRT – profiling ethical consumers	112
Fig. 6.2	CRT – profiling people, who prefer to shop at independent shops	113
Fig. 8.1	The four models of DCE, design in a circular economy (RSA great recovery, used with permission)	153
Fig. 8.2	Essi Karell’s system for modular fashion design (Karell 2013, p. 117)	159
Fig. 8.3	Relooping Fashion project (Relooping Fashion 2016, used with permission)	165
Fig. 10.1	Homework change model	198
Fig. 11.1	Conceptual model	223

List of Tables

Table 5.1	Summary of data collection	87
Table 6.1	Regression analysis with EthicalCon as dependent variable	115
Table 6.2	Coefficient analysis with EthicalCon as dependent variable	116
Table 6.3	Regression analysis with PrefInd as dependent variable – model summary	117
Table 6.4	Coefficient table of regression with PrefInd as dependent variable	118
Table 7.1	Study participants	132
Table 7.2	Key theme: consumers	135
Table 7.3	Key theme: communication	138
Table 7.4	The circular economy fashion communication canvas	142
Table 8.1	Quality in clothing (Niinimäki 2011)	154
Table 8.2	Design attributes for long-term satisfaction	156
Table 8.3	Design approaches for CE	166
Table 11.1	Five dimensions to measure customer perceptions of service quality	222
Table 11.2	Overview of sampled reselling and swapping peer-to-peer apps in iTunes	225
Table 11.3	Overview coding scheme	227
Table 11.4	Descriptive statistics aggregated level	230