

Politics of Citizenship and Migration

Series Editors

Willem Maas

Department of Political Science
York University, Glendon College
Toronto, Ontario, Canada

Justin Gest

George Mason University
Arlington, Virginia, USA

The Politics of Citizenship and Migration series publishes exciting new research in all areas of migration and citizenship studies. Open to multiple approaches, the series considers normative, conceptual, comparative, empirical, historical, methodological, and theoretical works. Versatile, the series publishes single and multi-authored monographs, short-form Pivot books, and edited volumes. Broad in its coverage, the series promotes research on citizenship and migration laws and policies, voluntary and forced migration, rights and obligations, demographic change, diasporas, political membership or behavior, public policy, minorities, transformations in sovereignty and political community, border and security studies, statelessness, naturalization, integration and citizen-making, and subnational, supranational, global, corporate, or multilevel citizenship.

More information about this series at <http://www.springer.com/series/15403>

Jatinder Mann
Editor

Citizenship in Transnational Perspective

Australia, Canada, and New Zealand

palgrave
macmillan

Editor

Jatinder Mann
Department of History
Hong Kong Baptist University
Kowloon Tong, Hong Kong SAR

Politics of Citizenship and Migration
ISBN 978-3-319-53528-9
DOI 10.1007/978-3-319-53529-6

ISBN 978-3-319-53529-6 (eBook)

Library of Congress Control Number: 2017943362

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s) 2017

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use. The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Cover Image © David Pimborough / Alamy Stock Photo
Cover design by Emma Hardy

Printed on acid-free paper

This Palgrave Macmillan imprint is published by Springer Nature
The registered company is Springer International Publishing AG
The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This edited collection is based on an international symposium that was held at the University of Alberta (U of A) in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. It brought together leading international scholars from Australia, Canada, and New Zealand. Many of the thanks for the collection are therefore the same as those for the symposium. In terms of the idea of the symposium coming to fruition I would like to give a heartfelt thanks to my former Banting Postdoctoral Fellowship mentor/supervisor and co-convenor of the symposium at the U of A: Professor Janine Brodie. From the first time that I broached the subject of having an international symposium with Janine she was extremely supportive and enthusiastic. In particular I would like to thank her for the hard work she did on our application for a Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) of Canada Connection Grant, without which we would not have been able to hold the symposium and this book would not have been possible. I would also like to express my gratitude to the Department of Political Science and the Faculty of Arts at the U of A for their support and encouragement from the beginning as well.

I mentioned above the SSHRC Connection Grant that Janine and I were successful in securing which enabled us to have the symposium and thus ultimately produce this edited collection. So, I would like to thank SSHRC for their extremely generous support, without which we certainly could not have afforded to bring over international speakers as far away as the antipodes. However, to even be eligible for a SSHRC Connection Grant applicants have to secure fifty per cent matching funding beforehand. As you can imagine this was no small feat, and I have several individuals and institutions to express my gratitude to for helping us achieve this goal. Firstly, the Graduate Programme in the Department of Political Science at the U of A deserves huge thanks for literally getting us over the finish line. In particular I would like to express my gratitude to Janine for supporting a gift-in-kind support, in the form of the services of a Graduate Research Assistant. I would also like to thank the Arts Resource Centre and the Faculty of Arts at the U of A more broadly, especially the Office of the Associate Dean for Research, the Kule Institute for Advanced Study, the Faculty of Native Studies, the Centre for Global Citizenship Education & Research, the Department of Sociology, and two Tier 1 Canada Research Chairs, Professor Janine Brodie, and Associate Professor Imre Szeman.

I would like to express my gratitude to the wonderful contributors to this edited collection: Augie Fleras, Yasmeen Abu-Laban, Brian Galligan, Joyce Green, Carwyn Jones, Craig Linkhorn, Audrey Macklin, Andrew Markus, Kate McMillan, Tim Rowse, Kim Rubenstein, Paul Spoonley, Daiva Stasiulis, and Mamari Stephens for their thought-provoking chapters, without which this book would not be possible. I would also like to thank firstly Janet Phillips, a Graduate Research Assistant in the Department of Political Science at the U of A, who did a stellar job with helping me organise the symposium. Daisy Raphael, her replacement as a Graduate Research Assistant seamlessly took over from Janet and was a tremendous help in the latter stages of organisation. Daisy is also owed immense gratitude for her wonderful assistance in editing Audrey Macklin's chapter in this edited collection. I hope this was a useful experience for Daisy as she and Audrey have common research interests.

I would like to give my thanks to Palgrave Macmillan, New York for agreeing to publish this edited collection in the first place. I would specifically like to thank the editors of the Politics of Citizenship and Migration Series: Willem Maas and Justin Gest for agreeing for the book to be a part of their excellent series. My gratitude also to Anca Pusca for commissioning the edited collection in the first place, and Anne Schult for being such a wonderful person to work with through the process to production. My thanks also to Ayswaraya Nagarajan for her excellent work in the production of the book, and for dealing so patiently with the many queries from myself and the contributors to this edited collection. I would also like to express my gratitude to the Menzies Centre for Australian Studies, King's College London in London, United Kingdom (UK) for providing me with a scholarly home and resources to work on this book. Your continued support over the years of my academic career has always been appreciated.

And lastly, but certainly not least, I would like to give my heartfelt thanks to my wonderful family and friends who have supported me throughout the process of producing this book – my first sole-edited collection. In particular I would like to express my gratitude to my mentors and senior colleagues for offering the pearls of their wisdom from books that they have edited in the past. You epitomise to me the collegiality of academia.

CONTENTS

1 Introduction	1
Jatinder Mann
Part I Transnationalism
2 Rethinking Citizenship Through Transnational Lenses: Canada, New Zealand, and Australia	15
Augie Fleras
3 Respatializing Social Citizenship and Security Among Dual Citizens in the Lebanese Diaspora	49
Daiva Stasiulis
Part II Evolution and Trajectory of Citizenship Regimes in Settler Societies
4 Australian Citizenship in a Changing Nation and World	79
Brian Galligan
5 The Redefinition of Citizenship in Canada, 1950s–1970s	97
Jatinder Mann

6	From “the Commonwealth’s Most Dutiful Daughter” to “Young Multicultural Nation”: Non-citizen Voting Rights and New Zealand’s Citizenship Regime	117
	Kate McMillan
7	‘All the Rights and Privileges of British Subjects’: Māori and Citizenship in Aotearoa New Zealand	139
	Carwyn Jones and Craig Linkhorn
Part III Settler-Indigenous Citizenships
8	Indigenous Citizenship and the Historical Imagination	159
	Tim Rowse
9	The Impossibility of Citizenship Liberation for Indigenous People	175
	Joyce Green
10	“A Useful and Self-respecting Citizenship” – Māori as Citizens in the Quest for Welfare in the Modern New Zealand State	189
	Māmari Stephens
11	Renegotiating Citizenship: Indigeneity and Superdiversity in Contemporary Aotearoa/New Zealand	209
	Paul Spoonley
Part IV Deep Diversity and Securitization
12	Australia’s Immigrants: Identity and Citizenship	225
	Andrew Markus
13	The Vulnerability of Dual Citizenship: from Supranational Subject to Citizen to Subject?	245
	Kim Rubenstein

14 Building a New Citizenship Regime? Immigration and Multiculturalism in Canada	263
Yasmeen Abu-Laban
15 From Settler Society to Warrior Nation and Back Again	285
Audrey Macklin
Index	315

LIST OF FIGURES

Fig. 6.1	‘What we stand for’	131
Fig. 12.1	Indication of belonging to a “great extent” by year of arrival and linear trendline, 1990–2010 (percentage)	233
Fig. 12.2	Au@2015 survey: Australian Identity Scale, score by three-year arrival intervals with trendline	237

LIST OF TABLES

Table 12.1	Population increase, Australia, Canada and New Zealand, 2000–2016	227
Table 12.2	Top 10 source countries, Migration Programme, 2012–13, 2015–6	228
Table 12.3	‘In your view, should immigration in this country be kept at its present level, increased or decreased?’ Aggregated results by region	229
Table 12.4	What do you think of the number of immigrants accepted into Australia? 2012–2016	231
Table 12.5	To what extent do you have a sense of belonging in Australia? Au@2015 overseas born by year of arrival (%)	233
Table 12.6	To what extent do you have a sense of belonging in Australia?, by country of birth, arrived 2001–2015	234
Table 12.7	Australian Identity Scale, distribution of scores, overseas born, arrived 2001–15 (%)	236
Table 12.8	Are you an Australian citizen? By year of arrival, Au@2015 (%)	239