

Advances in African Economic, Social and Political Development

Series Editors

Diery Seck, CREPOL - Center for Research on Political Economy, Dakar, Senegal

Juliet U. Elu, Morehouse College, Atlanta, GA, USA

Yaw Nyarko, New York University, NY, USA

Africa is emerging as a rapidly growing region, still facing major challenges, but with a potential for significant progress – a transformation that necessitates vigorous efforts in research and policy thinking. This book series focuses on three intricately related key aspects of modern-day Africa: economic, social and political development. Making use of recent theoretical and empirical advances, the series aims to provide fresh answers to Africa's development challenges. All the socio-political dimensions of today's Africa are incorporated as they unfold and new policy options are presented. The series aims to provide a broad and interactive forum of science at work for policymaking and to bring together African and international researchers and experts. The series welcomes monographs and contributed volumes for an academic and professional audience, as well as tightly edited conference proceedings. Relevant topics include, but are not limited to, economic policy and trade, regional integration, labor market policies, demographic development, social issues, political economy and political systems, and environmental and energy issues.

More information about this series at <http://www.springer.com/series/11885>

Omololu Fagbadebo • Fayth Ruffin
Editors

Perspectives on the Legislature and the Prospects of Accountability in Nigeria and South Africa

 Springer

Editors

Omololu Fagbadebo
School of Management, IT and Governance
University of KwaZulu-Natal
Pietermaritzburg, South Africa

Fayth Ruffin
School of Management, IT and Governance
University of KwaZulu-Natal
Westville, Durban, South Africa

ISSN 2198-7262

ISSN 2198-7270 (electronic)

Advances in African Economic, Social and Political Development

ISBN 978-3-319-93508-9

ISBN 978-3-319-93509-6 (eBook)

<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-3-319-93509-6>

Library of Congress Control Number: 2018944438

© Springer International Publishing AG, part of Springer Nature 2019

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are reserved by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Printed on acid-free paper

This Springer imprint is published by the registered company Springer International Publishing AG part of Springer Nature.

The registered company address is: Gewerbestrasse 11, 6330 Cham, Switzerland

Acknowledgments

We seize this opportunity to express our appreciation to colleagues who have participated in facilitating the completion of this work. It is one of the contributions to the comparative knowledge of the political process in two African giants, Nigeria and South Africa. Our intention is to fill a gap in the understanding of the importance of the legislature as a formidable pillar of accountability in constitutional democracy.

We acknowledge the wider interests and encouragements of colleagues, friends, and acquaintances. Your assistance at one stage or the other provided the necessary impetus for the conclusion of this work. You were there with your inquisitiveness over the progress and your eagerness to see the final draft of the book.

We appreciate colleagues who participated in the blind review exercise of the initial submissions of the contributors. Each of the manuscript submitted passed through at least four stages of review before the final draft was submitted to the publisher for the final review exercise. To all colleagues that responded to our pleas in this regard, we are grateful for your painstaking assistance.

We thank all the contributors for their patience and endurance while the constant requests for expeditious response to reviewers' queries lasted! We acknowledge that we took you through a tortuous review stage. We appreciate your determination to be part of this work not minding the stress!

Lorraine Klimowich of Springer International Publishing AG, Cham, is a motivator. Our initial interactions through constant communication at the preliminary stage facilitated this production. We are grateful. We appreciate the series editors of Advances in African Economic, Social and Political Development for their approval of the book proposal and the final editing of the manuscript. We acknowledge the contributions of other members of the management and staff of Springer International Publishing AG, Cham, for their patience with us.

It is our view that this book will provide the template for subsequent comparative studies on the legislature in the political process in the Nigerian and South African political systems.

O. M. Fagbadebo and F. A. Ruffin

Contents

Introduction: Understanding the Legislature as an Instrument of Accountability	1
Omololu Fagbadebo
Part I Principles, Tradition and Power of the Branches of Government
An Overview of Legislative Oversight and Accountability Mechanisms in Nigeria and South Africa	19
Omololu Fagbadebo
A Perspective on the Principle of ‘Constitutionalism’ in Relation to Executive and Legislative Accountability in South Africa	45
Andile Mcineka and Nomthandazo Ntlama
A Comparative Analysis of the Roles of the Legislature in Nigeria and South Africa: The Central Legislature in focus	63
Joseph Yinka Fashagba and Abdullahi Mu’awiyya
Executive-Legislature Relationships and the Promotion of Accountability and Transparency in South Africa	85
Msuthukazi Makiva and Isioma U. Ile
Legislative-Executive Corruption and Good Governance in Nigeria: Insights from Buhari’s Administration in the Fourth Republic	105
Samuel Chukwudi Agunyai and Kayode Wakili Olawoyin
Part II Conceptualising Challenges of Legislative Accountability and Oversight
Integrity Deficit as an Impediment to Effective Legislative Oversight in Nigeria	123
Celestine Ojo Jombo and Omololu Fagbadebo

The Challenges of Legislative-Executive Frictions over Institutional Powers in Nigeria	143
Dhikru Adewale Yagboyaju, Ebenezer O. Oni, and Olumuyiwa T. Faluyi
Playing Nollywood with Parliamentary Duties: Nigeria’s National Assembly as a Theatre of Politics of the Amusement Park	159
Olawale R. Olaopa and Victor Ojaborotu
Part III Mapping Change in Legislative Accountability and Oversight in Nigeria and South Africa
Constraints and Prospects for Legislative Oversight in Emerging African Democracies: The Case of South Africa	179
Koliswa M. Notshulwana and Teboho J. Lebakeng
Anti-corruption Campaigns and the Imperative for Effective Legislative Oversight	197
Dhikru Adewale Yagboyaju and Ibraheem Oladipo Muheeb
Digital Technologies, Online Engagement and Parliament-Citizen Relations in Nigeria and South Africa	217
Temitayo Isaac Odeyemi and Tunde Abioro
Public Participation in Legislative Oversight: A Review of Nature and Practice in Nigeria and South Africa	233
Innocent A. Daudu and Omololu Fagbadebo
Postscript: Neglect, Abuse and Misuse of Legislative Oversight Mechanisms	251
Omololu Fagbadebo

Notes on Contributors

Tunde Abioro holds a PhD in Political Science from the Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria. He is a Lecturer in the Department of Local Government Studies. His research interest is in public policy, human security, and comparative governance. He has published papers in academic journals and presented papers at conferences.

Samuel Chukwudi Agunyai holds a PhD in Political Science from the Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria. He is a Lecturer in the Department of Political Science. His areas of specialization are public policy, public administration, public governance, and democratic studies.

Innocent A. Daudu is a doctoral candidate at the Department of Political Sciences, University of Pretoria, South Africa. He has been engaged in teaching activities at the University of Zululand, Durban University of Technology, the University of KwaZulu-Natal, and the Management College of Southern Africa. His broad knowledge areas include comparative politics and governance, peace and conflict, policy and development, international political economy, leadership, and strategic change management.

Omololu Fagbadebo holds a doctoral degree in Political Science from the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. He has taught Political Science at the Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria, and University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. He is a Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the School of Management, IT and Governance, University of KwaZulu-Natal. He also teaches at the Department of Public Management, Law and Economics, Durban University of Technology, Riverside Campus, Pietermaritzburg. He has published academic papers in journals and books and has presented papers at conferences and workshops. His area of specialization includes comparative politics, legislative studies, governance, human security, development studies, and African politics.

Olumuyiwa T. Faluyi is a doctoral candidate in Political Science at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. His research area includes counterterrorism, national integration, power sharing, and federalism.

Joseph Yinka Fashagba holds a PhD in Political Science from the University of Ilorin, Nigeria. He is a Senior Lecturer and Head of the Department of Political Science, Federal University Lokoja, Lokoja, Nigeria. He has published articles in both local and international journals. He has coedited three books as well.

Isioma U. Ile is a Professor and currently leads the School of Government at the University of the Western Cape, Cape Town. She obtained her doctorate in Public Affairs from the School of Public Management and Administration at the University of Pretoria, South Africa. She has held various academic leadership positions in South African universities over the past 15 years. She has researched and published extensively in her specialist areas of academic interest, which include intergovernmental relations, citizen participation, and public policy monitoring and evaluation.

Celestine Ojo Jombo is a doctoral candidate in Political Science at the School of Social Sciences, University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. He is a lecturer at the Department of Political Science and Public Administration, Adekunle Ajasin University, Akungba Akoko, Nigeria. His research focus is on the peculiarities of executive-legislative relations in Nigeria's presidential system.

Teboho J. Lebakeng is a Research Associate at the University of Limpopo, South Africa. He obtained his doctorate degree from the University of Limpopo, South Africa. He has published academic papers in journals and books and has presented papers at conferences. One of his latest publications is Lebakeng, T.J. (2018). Reconstructing the social sciences and humanities: Advancing the African renaissance. Africology: The Journal of Pan African Studies. Vol. 11, No. 4. pp. 247–266.

Msuthukazi Makiva obtained her PhD degree in Public Administration from the University of the Western Cape. She is a Lecturer at the School of Government, University of the Western Cape. She was a Stakeholder Management Specialist at the PetroSA. Her research focus is on the evaluation of the institutional structure for effective policy implementation, oversight, and accountability, especially in the energy sector of South Africa.

Andile Mcineka has an LLB degree from the University of KwaZulu-Natal (UKZN), South Africa. He is also a Candidate Attorney at Tomlinson Mnguni James Attorneys. He was the Chairperson of the Black Lawyers Association Student Chapter at UKZN and currently a member of the National Executive Committee of the association. He is the University of Kwazulu-Natal Student Brand Ambassador. His latest article “Constitutionalism at Loggerheads with Judicial overreach” appeared in Without Prejudice, February 2018.

Abdullahi Mu'awiyya teaches Political Science at the Federal University Lokoja, Nigeria.

Ibraheem Oladipo Muheeb obtained his PhD degree in Political Science from the University of Ibadan, Nigeria. His research interests are in the fields of public administration, legislative studies, party politics, institution and governance, globalization, and Africa and African diaspora studies. He is the head of a collaborative research study on the Nigeria-Ireland's post-Brexit relation, interrogating an understudied history of cross-border relations between Nigeria and the Republic of Ireland. He is currently on voluntary service with the Brothers of Charity Services, Galway, Republic of Ireland.

Koliswa M. Notshulwana is a doctorate candidate in the Department of Political Sciences at the University of Pretoria. The title of her doctoral thesis is An Analysis of the Role and Function of SCOPA in promoting Accountability among National Government Departments and SOEs in South Africa. She obtained her bachelor's and master's degrees from the Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University (NMMU). A teacher by profession, she has presented papers at academic conferences.

Nomthandazo Ntlama is a Professor of Public Law and Head of Research at the Nelson R. Mandela School of Law, University of Fort Hare. She was formerly at the School of Law, University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa, where she served as the Acting Dean of Research, College of Law and Management Studies. She obtained her LLD at the University of South Africa. An expert in constitutional and human rights law, she is the Commissioner of the Judicial Service Commission (JSC) representing the Society of Law Teachers of Southern Africa. She is also the part-time Acting Judge of the High Court.

Temitayo Isaac Odeyemi teaches Political Science at the Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria, where he obtained his master's degree (Political Science) in 2016. He is a doctoral candidate in Political Science at the same university. His research focus is on the primacy of digital technologies in the contemporary political process. He has published papers in academic journals and presented papers at conferences.

Victor Ojakorotu is a Professor at the North-West University, Mafikeng, South Africa. He obtained his PhD in International Relations at the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa. He is widely published in internationally accredited academic journals and outlets. His research interests are in African politics, conflict and peace, environmental politics, and security.

Olawale R. Olaopa teaches Political Science at the Department of Political Science, Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria. He obtained his PhD in Political Science at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. He was a Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the Department of Political Science and International Relations, North-West University, Mafikeng, South Africa. He is widely published in the fields of public policy, gender issues, economic planning, indigenous knowledge management, public administration and finance, democratic governance, and sustainable development.

Kayode Wakili Olawoyin is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Local Government Studies, Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria.

Ebenezer O. Oni is a doctoral candidate in Political Science at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. He is a Lecturer at the Department of Political Science and International Relations, Crescent University, Abeokuta, Nigeria. He is a two-time recipient of the Social Science Research Council Doctoral Dissertation Fellowship in Peace, Security, and Development. His area of research interest includes democratic governance, ethnic studies, and public policy/administration and development studies. He has published papers in reputable journals and has contributed chapters in edited books.

Fayth Ruffin holds a doctoral degree in Public Affairs, with specialization in Public Governance, from the State University of New Jersey, United States of America. She is also a Juris Doctor of Antioch School of Law, Washington, DC. She served as the Academic Leader of the Public Governance Discipline in the School of Management, Information Technology and Governance, for 3 years. She is widely published. Her area of specialization includes African indigenous knowledge systems of governance and justice, South African public governance, global/local disaster risk management and risk reduction, and public administration and management.

Dhikru Adewale Yagboyaju is an Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science, University of Ibadan. He obtained his PhD in Political Science from the University of Ibadan. He was a Visiting Research Fellow at the Institute of Commonwealth Studies, University of London, United Kingdom, between 2004 and 2005. He is widely published in books and academic journals. His area of specialization includes public administration, comparative politics, and policy and strategic studies.