

JUDGMENT AND SACHVERHALT

PHAENOMENOLOGICA

COLLECTION FONDÉE PAR H.L. VAN BREDA ET PUBLIÉE
SOUS LE PATRONAGE DES CENTRES D'ARCHIVES-HUSSERL

132

JAMES M. DUBOIS

JUDGMENT AND SACHVERHALT
AN INTRODUCTION TO
ADOLF REINACH'S
PHENOMENOLOGICAL REALISM

Comité de rédaction de la collection:

Président: S. IJsseling (Leuven)

Membres: J.N. Mohanty (Philadelphia), P. Ricœur (Paris),
E. Ströker (Köln), J. Taminiaux (Louvain-la-Neuve)

Secrétaire: J. Taminiaux

JAMES M. DUBOIS

Internationale Akademie für Philosophie, Liechtenstein

JUDGMENT AND SACHVERHALT

An Introduction to
Adolf Reinach's Phenomenological Realism

SPRINGER-SCIENCE+BUSINESS MEDIA, B.V.

A C.I.P. Catalogue record for this book is available from the Library of Congress.

ISBN 978-90-481-4564-5 ISBN 978-94-015-8470-8 (eBook)
DOI 10.1007/978-94-015-8470-8

Printed on acid-free paper

All Rights Reserved

© 1995 Springer Science+Business Media Dordrecht

Originally published by Kluwer Academic Publishers in 1995

No part of the material protected by this copyright notice may be reproduced or utilized in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording or by any information storage and retrieval system, without written permission from the copyright owner.

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
Chapter I / JUDGMENTS AND STATES OF AFFAIRS	7
1. What is a Judgment?	7
2. Intentionality, Presentation, and Intuitive Fullness	16
3. States of Affairs and Relations	21
4. Nonstandard Instances of Judgment	30
5. Evidence, Knowledge, and Belief	34
Chapter II / NEGATION AND CORRESPONDENCE	47
1. Autonomy and Heteronomy in the Realm of States of Affairs	47
2. Building Up States of Affairs in, and for, Acts of Meaning	58
3. Negative Properties and Logical Concepts	67

Chapter III / INSIGHT AND THE A PRIORI	77
1. The Nature of A priori Necessity	78
2. A priori States of Affairs: Synthetic and Analytic, Formal and Material	86
3. Towards an Ontology of Essences and Concepts	96
4. Insight and Argumentation	107
 Chapter IV / LOGIC AND ARITHMETIC	 115
1. The Intersection of Logic, Psychology, and Judgment	116
2. States of Affairs and the Science of Demonstration	118
3. Numbers and Predication	124
 Chapter V / THE DISCOVERY OF SOCIAL ACTS	 129
1. Social Acts as Nonjudging Statements	130
2. The Uninventability and Indefinability of the Promise	135
3. Reinachian Objects	141
 Chapter VI / REINACH AS PHENOMENOLOGIST	 145
1. The Phenomenological Attitude	148
2. The Ideal Amidst the Real	151
3. Towards a "Subjective" Grounding of Social Acts	154
 Bibliography	 159
 Index	 167

Acknowledgements

This book has a long history, and my acknowledgements must accordingly reflect this.

As a student at Franciscan University of Steubenville I was first introduced to phenomenological realism, above all, as it is exemplified by Dietrich von Hildebrand. Here I must thank James Harold and Michael Healy, who inspired me to pursue a career in philosophy.

At the University of Rhode Island, I completed a Masters thesis on the roots of phenomenological realism, and was further guided by several persons teaching within this tradition. Fritz Wenisch, Mark Roberts, and Stephan Schwarz all played some role in fostering my continued interest in doing philosophy in the style and manner of the early phenomenologists. It was here that I first discovered and fell in love with the work of Adolf Reinach. I thank my father for all of the support and encouragement he has given me, especially during this period.

Given this background, it is somewhat intelligible that a young man from New England should end up in Liechtenstein. At the Internationale Akademie für Philosophie in Liechtenstein I was able to work with persons uniquely well-versed in the tradition of the early phenomenologists. The present book is largely based on the doctoral dissertation I completed and defended in Liechtenstein. Barry Smith, a co-editor of Reinach's Sämtliche Werke, and Josef Seifert, the Rektor of the IAP and a leading representative of contemporary phenomenological realism, served as my first and second readers respectively. Many thanks are due to them for their guidance. I also thank Fritz Wenisch and John Crosby, the translator of Reinach's The Apriori Foundations of the Civil Law, for carefully reading my text and offering many helpful suggestions. Many thanks are also due to John White for proofreading the camera-ready manuscript, and, together with Patricia Donahue-White, for providing moral support and intellectual stimulation throughout my time in Liechtenstein.

I thank the Stiftungsrat of the Academy in Liechtenstein for a generous stipend which allowed me to write my dissertation, and Franciscan University for giving me my first post, within which the final version of this text was produced. I thank Fr. Peter Haas of Vorarlberg for providing me with a much-needed quiet location where my dissertation was written.

Mention also must be made of Maja de Keijzer at Kluwer, and the members of the editorial board of the Phaenomenologica series. I thank them for their editorial advice and their confidence in my manuscript.

Above all, I thank my wife Susan for her love, support, and courage. Without her encouragement I would not have pursued my vocation as a philosopher. It is to her that I dedicate this book.