

Part I

Philosophy and Ethics of Sustainability

These three chapters pose questions on the nature of sustainability, to be taken up in the sections that follow.

The first chapter asks—what sort of judgement and decision-making will we need if organisations are to become truly sustainable?

The second chapter explores decision-making for sustainable organisations.

The third chapter asks—how could sustainability function as an ethical principle?

1. Sustainability, Integrity and Judgement
2. A MacIntyrean Analysis of Sustainability Narratives in Modern Businesses
3. Sustainability is a Work of Justice: Virtue not Distribution
