

Institutional Disrespect

Ibolya Losoncz

Institutional Disrespect

South Sudanese Experiences of the Structural Marginalisation of Refugee Migrants in Australia

palgrave
macmillan

Ibolya Losoncz
Australian National University
Acton, ACT, Australia

ISBN 978-981-13-7716-7 ISBN 978-981-13-7717-4 (eBook)
<https://doi.org/10.1007/978-981-13-7717-4>

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s), under exclusive licence to Springer Nature Singapore Pte Ltd. 2019

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use.

The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made. The publisher remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.

Cover illustration: Pattern © Melisa Hasan

This Palgrave Pivot imprint is published by the registered company Springer Nature Singapore Pte Ltd.

The registered company address is: 152 Beach Road, #21-01/04 Gateway East, Singapore 189721, Singapore

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Many people deserve my deep appreciation and gratitude for their wonderful support in helping me to author this book.

My thanks, first and foremost, go to the South Sudanese Australian community, its elders and the workers supporting the Sudanese community. Thank you for engaging with this research. I am especially grateful to all the participants who paused long enough to relate their experiences, to give invaluable insights and to entrust me with their stories. I hope this book justifies that trust.

The research presented in this book is largely based on my PhD project. I am grateful to my PhD supervisors—Valerie Braithwaite and Jay Marlowe—for their sustained support, encouragement and critical engagement with my research.

I would like to thank my amazing colleagues at the School of Regulation and Global Governance (RegNet), The Australian National University, and the highly dedicated network of academics, students, activists, artists and others at the African Studies Association of Australasia and the Pacific (AFSAAP). I am grateful to all of you.

Importantly, none of this would have been possible without the love and encouragement of my beloved children and my amazing friends. Thank you for all your support and for making me laugh when I wanted to cry. I am indebted to you all.

Finally, I would like to thank Joshua Pitt, senior editor at Palgrave Macmillan, for giving me the platform to share my research and analysis with others, and the anonymous reviewers for their invaluable feedback.

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
2	From South Sudan to Australia	13
3	Methodology	39
4	Conceptualising Respect and Institutional Disrespect in the Refugee Migration Context	51
5	Goals Without Means: The Economic Exclusion of Refugee Migrants	67
6	‘They Are Destroying Us’: Family Conflict and Institutional Intervention	83
7	Disrespect at the Hands of the Government	99
8	Responses to Institutional Disrespect	115

9 Conclusion	135
---------------------	------------

Index	149
--------------	------------