

Egalitarianism and Global Justice

Kevin K.W. Ip

Egalitarianism and Global Justice

From a Relational Perspective

palgrave
macmillan

Kevin K.W. Ip
Office of University General Education
The Chinese University of Hong Kong
Hong Kong

ISBN 978-1-137-51758-6      ISBN 978-1-137-51407-3 (eBook)
DOI 10.1057/978-1-137-51407-3

Library of Congress Control Number: 2016940569

© The Editor(s) (if applicable) and The Author(s) 2016

This work is subject to copyright. All rights are solely and exclusively licensed by the Publisher, whether the whole or part of the material is concerned, specifically the rights of translation, reprinting, reuse of illustrations, recitation, broadcasting, reproduction on microfilms or in any other physical way, and transmission or information storage and retrieval, electronic adaptation, computer software, or by similar or dissimilar methodology now known or hereafter developed.

The use of general descriptive names, registered names, trademarks, service marks, etc. in this publication does not imply, even in the absence of a specific statement, that such names are exempt from the relevant protective laws and regulations and therefore free for general use. The publisher, the authors and the editors are safe to assume that the advice and information in this book are believed to be true and accurate at the date of publication. Neither the publisher nor the authors or the editors give a warranty, express or implied, with respect to the material contained herein or for any errors or omissions that may have been made.

Cover illustration: © caia image / Alamy Stock Photo

Printed on acid-free paper

This Palgrave Macmillan imprint is published by Springer Nature
The registered company is Nature America Inc. New York

To all the teachers I've been privileged to have

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This book has its origin in the doctoral dissertation I completed at Oxford. I am extremely grateful to Simon Caney for his superb supervision and enduring support. My intellectual debt to him is beyond measure. Stuart White and Darrel Moellendorf examined my dissertation. Their insightful comments led to the subsequent expansion and revisions of my dissertation and eventually its transformation into a book, for which I am grateful to them. Upon my arrival at Oxford, I was fortunate enough to have Nick Bunnin as my first supervisor. I thank him for his warm counsel and support, which was invaluable to me. I am also indebted to Pochung Chow, who has inspired me to study political theory. The Swire Educational Trust provided generous financial support for my graduate study and I am grateful for its support.

Earlier versions of the material included in this book have been presented at various conferences and workshops organized by the Academic Sinica in Taipei, the European Political Science Association, the International Studies Association, the Political Studies Association of the UK, the University of Minho, Portugal, and the American Political Science Association. I have benefited significantly from the comments of the audiences. In particular, I thank Ali Emre Benli, Maria Cabrita, Dan Caldwell, Rick Harmes, Fumio Iida, Gavin Morrison, Theo Papaioannou, James Rutherford, Benjamin Sachs, Alexandre Sayegh, Pablo Scotton, Peter Stone, Matthew Summers, and Ryusaku Yamada.

It has been a pleasure working with Palgrave Macmillan. Thanks are due to Rachel Krause and Alisa Pulver. I am particularly grateful to Rachel for her enthusiastic support for the project at its early stage. I also wish to thank the anonymous reviewer for Palgrave Macmillan.

For research assistance I thank Karen Poon, Vanessa Arasaratnam, and Liz Wan.

Above all, I am grateful to my wife, Rhonda, who makes all these worth doing, for her love and patience in these years.

My interest in egalitarianism and justice goes way back. As a teenager I began to realize that many existing inequalities are not only avoidable but grossly unjust. This book is part of my reflection upon this topic, and I dedicate it to all the teachers and mentors I have been privileged to have throughout the years.

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
2	Global Equality as a Relational Ideal	15
3	A Relational Account of Global Egalitarian Justice	53
4	Equality and the Justification for Coercion	79
5	Equality and Special Relations of Cooperation	105
6	Equality and the Significance of Nationality	129
7	Responsibility for Global Justice: Agents, Distribution, and Demandingness	159
8	Conclusion: Global Justice in Non-ideal Circumstances	189
	Bibliography	199
	Index	225